- (131) Mrs. Maltais (Taschereau) – 9 February 2016
To the Minister of Justice

Within the framework of the clause-by-clause consideration of Bill 59, An Act to enact the Act to prevent and combat hate speech and speech inciting violence and to amend various legislative provisions to better protect individuals, the Minister of Justice often explained that the bill had been modeled on foreign legislation providing a framework for hate speech.

When questioned about this on 2 December 2015, she replied that Bill 59 indeed aims to provide a framework for hate speech and for speech inciting violence, that a good number of legislatures worldwide have done this, and that we are also responding to a specific request made by the Commission des droits de la personne et de la jeunesse for this type of speech to be regulated by Québec law.

Considering that hate speech is already prohibited under the Criminal Code of Canada, and in order to support her comments, would the Minister of Justice table the list of jurisdictions (and the relevant legislation) that provide a hate speech framework in both their criminal law and criminal offences, as she is about to do with Bill 59?
