BRIAN M. LEVITT Chairman of the Board The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts

A MUSEUM THAT IS REINVENTING ITSELF

This year was marked by renewal and reinvention. First and foremost, the most obvious: the Museum's expansion project fully assumed its rightful place on Avenue du Musée and Sherbrooke Street. The Claire and Marc Bourgie Pavilion of Quebec and Canadian Art took definite shape, and the building (the former Erskine and American Church), which has been designated a national historic site, is undergoing heritage restoration. Its nave will become a concert hall, and the monumental Tiffany windows, which have also been restored by Montreal professionals, will be reinstalled. Like a teeming anthill, thousands of workers and craftspeople worked all year long at building the Museum's future. The result will be spectacular, and we will have succeeded in preserving this unique site. We thank all of the builders: through their efforts, hundreds of thousands of visitors will be able to discover (or rediscover) our artists' works in a historical context.

For the entire management team and the members of our Board, the successful funding of this project was essential from the outset. In addition to the contribution for construction by the federal and provincial governments, to whom we express our gratitude, we had set a goal to self-finance the additional annual operating costs generated by the addition of a fourth pavilion. Thus, we were counting on participation from the private sector to establish a $14-million capitalized fund. We can now say "mission accomplished." I would like to offer my heartfelt thanks to all those who contributed to this fund, including the Bourgie family (Claire and Marc Bourgie, Claude Bourgie Bovet and Pierre Bourgie), Hydro-Québec, Power Corporation of Canada, Reitmans (Canada) Ltd, the National Bank of Canada, J. Armand Bombardier Foundation, Pierre H. and Andrée D. Lessard, and those who, at the time of printing, wished to remain anonymous. I would also like to thank the City of Montreal, which will assume the cost of developing the public spaces outside the Museum and the sculpture garden flanking the new pavilion.

The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts has always been reputed for its sound, stringent management, and this project is no exception: the initial budgets and schedules have been respected, and the reinvented Museum will open in the fall of 2011 with a new pavilion of Quebec and Canadian art, a new concert hall, and a reinstalled collection in the three other pavilions, presenting our latest acquisitions in an entirely new layout.

THE MUSEUM HAS ALSO REINVENTED ITSELF AT THE LEVEL OF INVOLVEMENT OF ITS BOARD OF TRUSTEES AND ITS FOUNDATION

All Trustees were canvassed as part of the Museum's major fund-raising campaign, to support the campaign 150 Gifts for our 150th: Great Works for a Great Museum, either by donating a work from their personal collection or by persuading their art-collector friends to do so to enrich the Museum's heritage collection. The results are already highly promising, and we thank all those who took part in this initiative spearheaded by the Museum's Director. In addition, the donor recognition programme was also revamped to attract new donors, from the smallest to the largest, since every dollar counts and every donation is essential.

Another aspect of our reinvention deserves mention: the Museum's Volunteer Association and the Association of Volunteer Guides completely updated their charter of statutes and regulations to better adapt them to today's realities, and I congratulate them for their success. The Volunteer Association raised a record net profit of $1,215,000 with the Museum's Annual Ball, and close to $100,000 with the Masked Soirée, the profits of which are growing steadily.

A SOCIALLY ENGAGED MUSEUM

I applaud the Museum Director's vision to position our institution as socially engaged with the presentation of the exhibition Imagine: The Peace Ballad of John & Yoko. Admission was free, so that all visitors could see the importance of promoting world peace. More than 150,000 visitors, including many young people, heeded the call with enthusiasm and interest. I would like to mention that more than 40 corporate partners in Montreal pooled their efforts in the name of peace and agreed to support this project by providing their services or products at little or no cost, to the tune of more than $1 million. We were touched by their gesture, which transformed this event into a collective work.

A MUSEUM THAT IS STILL OPEN TO ALL – EVEN DURING CONSTRUCTION

Despite the construction and reinstallation of the collections in the Museum's galleries, the public continued to flock to all of our pavilions, and we once again surpassed the 600,000-visitor mark.

Moreover, 900,000 people in six European and North American cities visited six exhibitions developed, produced and circulated by our Museum. This is a great source of pride for our institution and for our city and an all-time record for the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. I would also like to mention that the exhibition catalogue ¡Cuba! was translated into a fourth language – Dutch – after being published in Spanish, French and English.

I cannot, however, draw your attention to our performance without also mentioning the ongoing support of our VIPs (Museum members). For the first time in the Museum's history, revenues from memberships exceeded $1 million. This strong feeling of belonging and the loyalty of a continually growing audience encourage us in pursuing our mission and excelling in the development of even more exciting exhibitions and new activities.

Fiscal 2009–2010 is the fifth consecutive year that has ended with an operating surplus.

This year, our Board of Trustees welcomed new members Pierre Bourgie, Amel Chamandy, Isabelle Marcoux and the Honourable Serge Joyal. I offer my warm thanks to the outgoing members of the Board. Throughout their term, the Honourable Francis Fox and Frederick Lowy gave us the benefit of their expertise as administrators while sharing their passion for the visual arts with us. I would like to express special thanks to Clément Richard, who also stepped down from the Board. During his fourteen-year tenure as a Museum Trustee, he served on the Executive Committee for twelve years and chaired the Acquisition Committee for Canadian Art from 2001 to 2009. His unwavering support and energetic contribution deserve to be mentioned here.

The support of our sponsors is essential to the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. We have been fortunate to be able to rely on the support of such prestigious companies as Sun Life Financial and METRO; without them, the presentation of our exhibitions would have been more difficult.

Numerous companies and foundations partnered with the Education and Community Programmes Department to support their various activities, and we thank them all, especially René Malo and Marie Gagnon, through the René Malo Foundation.

Obviously, without the ongoing collaboration of our government partners, we would not be able to carry out our mission. I gratefully acknowledge the support of the Ministère de la Culture, des Communications et de la Condition féminine du Québec, which heard our plea for help in recent years. I hope it will agree to provide us with a level of support that reflects our achievements and major projects. I also thank Heritage Canada and its Museums Assistance Program, and the Conseil des arts de Montréal and the Canada Council for the Arts for their steadfast support.

Given these achievements, the result of tireless efforts by its staff, its volunteers and its partners, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts is undeniably an exceptional institution. It occupies a highly respected place alongside world's great museums and positions itself resolutely in a class of its own among museums here at home. We are confident that the various political players will continue to include the Museum among their top priorities.

All of these successes do not happen by magic. I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the skills, dedication and expertise of a peerless team of employees, headed by Nathalie Bondil, supported by Danielle Champagne, Director of Communications and Director of the Museum Foundation, and by Paul Lavallée, Director of Administration. On behalf of all the Museum Trustees, a resounding "bravo" to all our employees and volunteers.

NATHALIE BONDIL Director and Chief Curator The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts

AN EXCEPTION-ALLY DYNAMIC YEAR

For the sixth time in its history, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, which is celebrating its 150th anniversary in 2010, is expanding, with the addition of a new pavilion of Quebec and Canadian art and a concert hall. At the core of this project is the preservation of a national historical monument. This is far from the most economical solution, as ethical and heritage considerations make it more difficult than the construction of a new building. It is important to emphasize this fact, since it might be assumed that renovating an existing building would be less expensive. The Museum's choice of this option is aimed at enhancing the beauty of our city. It is also an architectural conversion that we hope will serve as an example internationally, since there are few other such projects in the Western world, and the alarming situation of Quebec's religious heritage buildings is well known. This sophisticated and complex expansion project nonetheless respects the limits of a relatively modest budget (the comparative indicators are telling). As well, support from different levels of government and from our individual and corporate donors, primarily the Bourgie family, has been essential in carrying out this innovative project for the community and beyond.

At the same time, behind the scenes, the Museum's collections are being reinstalled in the other three pavilions. The four major areas of our encyclopedic collection will soon enjoy better visibility. Quebec and Canadian art will be featured in the new Claire and Marc Bourgie Pavilion; the decorative arts and design will, of course, be housed in the Liliane and David M. Stewart Pavilion; world cultures will be showcased in the Michal and Renata Hornstein Pavilion; and the fine arts will be presented chronologically, from the Old Masters to contemporary art, in the Jean-Noël Desmarais Pavilion. In the Museum's largestever publishing endeavour, three major scholarly works about our collections are currently in production. This new body of information will be published in three lavishly illustrated volumes, featuring never-before-published essays and sections by guest contributors, and distributed internationally. I would like to take this opportunity to mention that our Publishing Department, headed by Francine Lavoie, is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary in 2010. With more than 200 publications to its credit, the Museum is Canada's second largest bilingual publisher of art books. Many of these catalogues are distributed around the world. I would like to acknowledge the systematic and exemplary effort, in terms of both financial contribution and quality, that the Museum makes to publish all of its exhibition catalogues in both English and French.

Thanks to our staff, our partners and our friends, the Museum has never been so dynamic. The intermingling of genres – music, fashion, film – is attracting growing numbers of visitors, members and donors of works of art that enrich our collection...

In the area of acquisitions, while we did not attain the level of the last two recordbreaking years, and before the results of the current campaign of major gifts for the Museum's 150th anniversary have been tabulated, we did make some important additions to our collection in fiscal 2009-2010. Veronese's Christ Crowned with Thorns is undeniably a major acquisition, the second oil on canvas by the Italian Renaissance master in a Canadian museum, completing this segment of our collection. The second half of the late Ben Weider's collection comprised a number of notable works, including two military paintings, by British artists Ernest Crofts and Laslett John Pott, to the glory of Napoleon. In pre-Columbian art, we received outstanding donations from A. H. Dumoulin, Lionel Vallée, Rollande and Jean-Claude Bertounesque, and Leo Rosshandler, the Museum's leading donor of pre-Columbian art, and his wife, Andrée. In Canadian art, we received a collection of ecclesiastical silver from our faithful donor Senator Serge Joyal; unpublished drawings and archives associated with Pierre Gauvreau's first production, donated by Madeleine Arbour; the sketchbook "Baie St Paul jan. 1949" donated by Guylaine and Frédéric Back; Riopelle prints from our steadfast donor Dr. Yvon Tardif; three paintings by Guido Molinari donated by his son, Guy, and a major group of works from Pierre Théberge, reflecting his vision and his eye for the avant-garde. The decorative arts collection was enriched by donations from Liliane M. Stewart, Anna and Joe Mendel, the late Lily Yung, France Larivée and Yolanda Favretto, a welcome complement to our acclaimed collections of jewellery and contemporary glass. The Museum's Volunteer Association made an opportune contribution to the purchase of a Wagnerian relief by Biegas, a rare ceramic piece by Gallé and an extraordinary painting, The Throne Room, Queluz National Palace, Sintra, Portugal, by the young Toronto artist Dorian FitzGerald. We offer our warmest thanks to all of our many donors, each of whom contributed to enhancing the Museum's collection.

Our Education and Community Programmes Department celebrated the tenth anniversary of its "Sharing the Museum" programme, aimed at helping non-profit organizations that work with disadvantaged groups. Since this programme was established, more than 100,000 people have taken part in its activities, coming into closer contact with the world of art - and at no charge. Two intergenerational partnerships are worthy of mention: the first was set up with the Yellow Door, an organization that works with isolated older people, and the second was developed with Résidence Chez-soi. Every year, more than 100,000 visitors also take part in a wide variety of activities organized in partnership with foundations and community associations, schools and universities, and guided tours presented by the Museum's 150 Volunteer Guides, who deserve our deepest gratitude for their vital contribution.

I would also like to mention the remarkable work accomplished by the Arte Musica Foundation, led by its President, Pierre Bourgie, and its Artistic and General Director, Isolde Lagacé. They have made music an integral part of the Museum experience even before the official opening of the future concert hall (in September 2011). The many activities they have developed are already an indication that this new facet of the Museum appeals to lovers of both music and the visual arts and that this is indeed a highly promising alliance.

A RECORD: 1.5 MILLION VISITORS AT HOME AND ABROAD

The statistics for this fiscal year attest to a record level of visitors to the exhibitions designed and produced by our institution, both in Montreal and on the international museum scene. A total of 611,000 people visited the Museum here in Montreal, and 900,000 visitors discovered our exhibitions in six European and North American cities: San Francisco, Groningen, Pittsburgh, Barcelona, Paris and Vancouver. The season in Montreal was rich and varied. By developing ties with the community that supports it, the Museum hopes to attract young people with exhibitions that speak to their interests - contemporary art and design, music and fashion - while at the same time, of course, maintaining its focus on the fine arts.

IMAGINE: THE PEACE BALLAD OF JOHN & YOKO

The year began with a spring symbolizing peace. "I'm selling peace, and Yoko and I are just one big advertising campaign. It may make people laugh, but it may make them think, too," said John Lennon during the famous 1969 Bed-in in Montreal, kicking off their campaign for peace. Their bed, the most private of places, became a public stage, a forum where, dressed in pyjamas, they received hundreds of journalists, explaining their views on the Vietnam War. Overshadowed by the couple's media dimension, this performance - which influenced other artists, including Sophie Calle - like others they created together, was ahead of its time. Often ridiculed or denigrated, they have been rightfully re-evaluated today. In a fitting twist of fate, Yoko Ono was awarded a Golden Lion at the Venice Biennale in 2009. Forty years after the Bed-in, in a 1,000-square-metre exhibition space featuring 140 works and installations, the Museum presented the lively artistic and musical dialogue, under the peace sign, between the pop icon and the artist once associated with the Fluxus movement. The exhibition was masterfully curated by Emma Lavigne, curator of contemporary art at the Musée national d'Art moderne - Centre Georges Pompidou, Paris, and Thierry Planelle, artistic director and sound illustrator, with, of course, exceptional input from Yoko Ono and her team, including Karla Merrifield, Ono's archivist. The exhibition layout was designed by Éric Daoust of the Montreal-based agency Bosses Design, with graphic design by Philippe Legris.

It was decided that rather than publish a catalogue, an interactive website would be created, in keeping with the spirit of this friendly message of peace; for maximum dissemination, it is worth describing this project here for the records. Beyond its pursuit of academic recognition, the Museum strives to be a socially engaged citizen. With this selfless action, the institution conveys its values to the largest number of people, promoting accessibility and therefore offering free admission. Much more than just marking an anniversary, this exhibition re-created the "happening" with a decidedly contemporary artistic premise. It rekindled the relevance of the action in the present by continually calling on visitors to participate. In order to balance the budget, we took the unusual step of asking our suppliers and partners to provide their services free of charge, in keeping with the message, which goes beyond the confines of the Museum. Reaction to this inclusive and unifying approach was very positive: it transformed the exhibition into a collective work, rallying everyone around the same philosophy. To our great surprise, forty partners donated services valued at more than one million dollars! With the world in the throes of an economic crisis in the fall of 2008, the Museum had to be cautious: but did this mean the ambitious scope of the project had to be scaled back? Would we have to charge admission? No. We found the solution in our Cuban experience (during the exhibition ; Cuba!), which was a vibrant success despite the financial constraints of some of the cultural players, who work in a collective system of exchange and barter. The Museum approached its suppliers and partners in transportation, material goods, advertising and media; their response was remarkable and unexpected. It allowed us to involve the urban community in the event while logically integrating it into the performance-focussed and interactive nature of this conceptual art. For example, in a world first, the Société des Transports de Montréal (STM) broadcast a recorded message from Yoko Ono several times a day to millions of metro users: a white STM peace bus plied the streets of Montreal, and billboards by competing companies announced the same message. This was not advertising (no logos were displayed) but simply the message "Imagine Peace" in many different languages, an updated take on the "War Is Over" poster campaign of the 1960s. Forty years later, media and advertising strategies in public spaces were once again diverted: the goal was to infuse the city with poetry, much like the installations Jenny Holzer creates today. The exhibition drew attention beyond our borders, in a special edition of the French daily Libération. We offer our heartfelt thanks to all of our partners, and our main benefactors, Amel and Glenn J. Chamandy and the NuEdge Gallery.

This exhibition, which was offered to the public free of charge, was enlightening, engaging and lively, appealing to both Baby-boomers and younger visitors, who all embraced this universal message. Its multidisciplinary nature attracted music fans, nostalgia buffs and teenagers, thereby expanding our range of visitors. After Warhol Live, this was another exhibition that combined the visual arts with music and enabled us to enhance our expertise with a highly sophisticated soundscape. John and Yoko's heartbeats, their echoing names, reverberated along a complex musical programme. The gallery devoted to the song Imagine was set up to encourage a shared as opposed to individual listening experience, with audio equipment or in a deferential position facing the stage and musicians: seated on benches face to face in a luminous white room, the audience members "looked at each other" as they listened to the same music and heard the same words: the invisible became tangible. Visitors were invited to sit at the white piano and give a solo performance, while the title song of the exhibition played in several versions that merged into one another. Visitors heard successive versions, from the mono recording of first take of the demo, playing softly in a speaker above the piano, to the original version from the eponymous album that filled the entire room with quadraphonic sound.

With Yoko Ono in attendance, the exhibition Imagine: The Peace Ballad of John & Yoko officially opened on March 31, garnering intense media attention and record attendance. This exhibition, the first to be dedicated to the artist-couple, drew more than 152,000 visitors, who loved the participatory nature of the project, which gave them a surprisingly different museum experience.

The exhibition required daily maintenance; and the security guards were asked to encourage visitors to participate so that they also become players in what Yoko Ono described as an "unfinished work of art," with each visitor invited to complete the work through their participation. The exhibition was meaningless without this interaction. The public imbued it with a soul. Visitors mounted a stepladder to read the word "yes" with a magnifying glass, hammered nails into a board to create a painting of their dreams, took a bite of an apple sculpture, played chess against a non-existent opponent, chatted with Yoko Ono live over the telephone, read books about peace in a library in shaped like the Tower of Babel, and tied their wishes to the peace tree. They stamped the words "Imagine Peace" on a giant map of the world displayed on the wall of a UN-like conference hall (Israel, the Middle East, Montreal and North America were soon blacked out). For this special exhibition, Yoko Ono allowed visitors to photograph everything, including themselves on the bed, in the same situation John and Yoko had once been in. A daily stroll through the exhibition revealed a host of surprises: people were playing, visibly moved, and displayed a great sensitivity to the message. The public appropriated the Museum, with people from all walks of life creating their own bed-in. Numerous activities took place during the exhibition: performances by the Groupement des Artistes pour la Paix, a special collaborative project with Radio-Canada's Espace Musique, a partnership with LOVE (Leave Out Violence/Vivre sans violence), an organization that encourages young people to communicate in peaceful, harmonious ways. In conclusion, it was a playful, positive, amazing, enlightening and ultimately memorable experience.

JUNE 18 TO SEPTEMBER 27, 2009

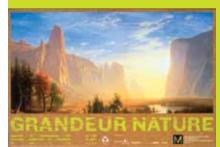

EXPANDING HORIZONS: PAINTING AND PHOTOGRAPHY OF AMERICAN AND CANADIAN LANDSCAPE 1860–1918

Over the summer, more than 40,000 people visited the original exhibition curated by Hilliard T. Goldfarb, our Associate Chief Curator, an American who has become a Canadian citizen. It featured 200 paintings and photographs comparing, for the first time, the landscapes of Canada with those of the United States, from 1860 to 1918. Thanks to his efforts, the exhibition received a major grant from the Terra Foundation for its scholarly qualities.

In 1999, the starry-eyed exhibition Cosmos: From Romanticism to the Avant-garde, brilliantly celebrated the arrival of the new millennium, opening up the twenty-first century to a world without limits. With Expanding Horizons, a dramatically different vision has emerged in just a decade, that of a world whose horizons are constantly becoming closer, more tangible and more vulnerable. The heroic sentiment of nature as huge, monumental and beyond measure has now given way to alarm about an endangered planet, with the final frontier still inhospitable to life. A dramatic reversal of view has taken place, as if we were looking through the opposite end of the telescope. Our global perception of the natural world is of a planet with cruelly diminished horizons. The environmental cause has become our primary concern, despite persistent skeptics. Following a period of cosmogonic lyricism, the pragmatic necessity to act on convictions arising from our sense of urgency has all the seriousness of a deep-sea diver's warning bell.

With Expanding Horizons, the Museum set out to transform its exhibition design and publishing practices. This exhibition affords us a forthright look at the current attitudes about the natural world, and I would like to reflect its value through the environmentally conscious prism of contemporary creation. Nature, which inspired the artists of the past, today instills in them the same intrinsic respect. The architectural firm Atelier Big City came up with an imaginative layout that makes full use of recyclable or reusable materials and emphasizes mechanical construction methods. The furnishings for the exhibition were created by Molo design, a well-known Vancouver eco-design firm. The catalogue was an innovation in the field of art book publishing. It was produced by orangetango and Transcontinental Litho Acme, from the eco-friendly design to the choice of materials and print production process. The catalogue was honoured with several awards. By opting for sustainable development, a concept new to museology, the Museum made a decisive move to greater environmental responsibility, accompanied by a comprehensive evaluation of practices at every level of the institution, followed by recommendations from our recently formed "green committee."

At the same time, to lend even more weight to this premise, the Museum presented the exhibition Frédéric Back, One with Nature. The affable master of animation, who has always put his convictions ahead of his work, is an environmental activist of long standing with the uncommon determination of an "old man who is always angry," as he describes himself. He became our standard bearer in getting this message out to the younger generation.

OCTOBER 2, 2009, TO FEBRUARY 7, 2010 J. W. WATERHOUSE: GARDEN OF ENCHANTMENT

In the fall, the first major retrospective exhibition of works by Waterhouse, the modern Pre-Raphaelite, was presented in Montreal, its only North American showing. With close to 90,000 visitors and glowing reviews, it exceeded our attendance projections. It was organized by the Groninger Museum, the Netherlands, in collaboration with the Royal Academy of Arts, London, and our Museum, led by a talented, cohesive team of curators: Peter Trippi, our "Waterhouse Boy," a leading expert on the painter, Patty Wageman, director of the Groninger Museum, who initiated the exhibition, Elizabeth Prettejohn, professor of art history at the University of Bristol, and Robert Upstone, curator of British modern art at the Tate Gallery. The exhibition featured about fifty paintings representative of the artist's most sophisticated and impressive work and, for the first time, brought together three versions of the iconic Lady of Shalott.

The art of Waterhouse, a little-known artist whose works, paradoxically, are famous, is part of a dual culture – French and British – echoing our own history. Although he is a purely British product of the Royal Academy in London, where he spent his entire career, his style makes him the most French of the Pre-Raphaelites. This enigmatic painter was part of the second generation, that of Burne-Jones. Waterhouse was close to several of the artists collected by the Art Association of Montreal, forerunner to the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts: a number of paintings from our collection created by his Victorian contemporaries (Millais, Alma-Tadema, Briton Rivière, and McWirther) were displayed in the first gallery to situate Waterhouse and the Royal Academy's tastes in Montreal's history. At the same time, Waterhouse scandalized his peers and critics of his time with his more modern style, borrowed from the naturalist and Impressionist schools on the Continent.

Out of a desire to modernize the subject and allow for a greater number of readings, we created a dramatic exhibition design and a comprehensive educational approach that allowed us to bring out the rich symbolism in Waterhouse's art. Connections with literature and poetry, theatre and history, legends from mythology and chivalry, which inspired the painter, served as bridges to other audiences. We wanted younger visitors to understand why Waterhouse's aesthetic was decidedly contemporary, and how his worldview, whether enchanted or haunted, was echoed by modern-day filmmakers like Tim Burton and Guillermo del Toro. Delving into symbolism, between spiritualism and occultism, it transcends time. Two Montreal artists who were consciously influenced by Waterhouse, rock vocalist Melissa Auf der Maur and theatre director Nathalie Claude, served as vectors and interpreters for his art. The exhibition's universally acclaimed design was enriched by the black magic of Nathalie Claude and Raymond Marius Boucher, and the film Out of Our Minds (OOOM) by Melissa Auf der Maur and Tony Stone had its Canadian premiere here, following its screening at the Sundance Festival.

In the area of music, I gave carte blanche to Kent Nagano to come up with a symphonic audioguide to the exhibition, since the maestro's repertoire corresponded to Waterhouse's aesthetic. After Van Dongen, this second collaborative effort with the Arte Musica Foundation was part of a desire to introduce a new museum practice. Here, the different stations along the musical stroll incited the listener, captivated by a musical piece – music being temporal – to pause and give these exquisite paintings the attention they deserve. Listeners were utterly absorbed in this delightful experience.

FEBRUARY 12 TO MAY 2, 2010

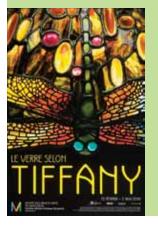

TIFFANY GLASS: A PASSION FOR COLOUR

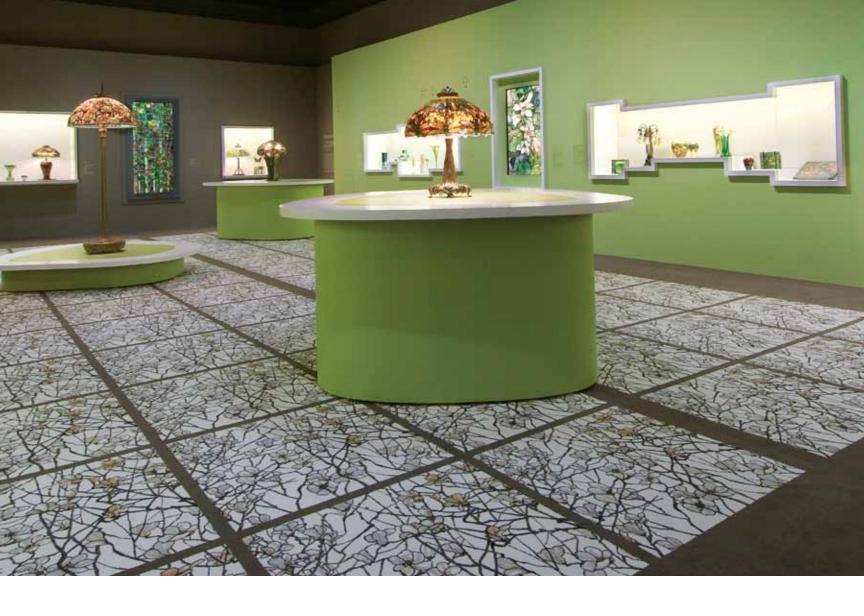

This exhibition was the first of this scope to be presented in Canada on the work of the celebrated American designer. It was developed and produced by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, which also circulated it in Paris and Richmond, Virginia.

One of the exhibition's most remarkable elements was the presentation of a little-known group of seventeen monumental stained glass windows belonging to the Museum's collection, following the recent acquisition of the Erskine and American Church. They adorned the nave and the chapel before they were removed to allow for the transformation of the church into the future Pavilion of Quebec and Canadian Art. A tour de force of technical and logistical complexity, this magnificent collection has been studied and restored. It was the focus of an exceptional presentation exclusive to Montreal, a unique opportunity to see these monumental glass sculptures at eye level and appreciate Tiffany's genius close up before the windows are reinstalled in the future concert hall. In the meantime, a musical stroll with selections by Pierre Bourgie, President of the Arte Musica Foundation, revealed harmonic and poetic correlations with the works on display.

Before they were put on public display, the windows were restored, in the largest restoration project we have ever undertaken. The Museum directly invested more than half a million dollars, a significant amount for our institution. The restoration was carried out in Montreal by Françoise Saliou, assisted by Thomas Belot from the studio La Pierre de Lune, under the supervision of Richard Gagnier, our chief conservator, in association with American master glassmaker and well-known expert Thomas Venturella. This lengthy endeavour took three years and involved huge challenges, since Tiffany's technique is bold and unequalled: he developed numerous colour effects – his palette comprised five thousand shades – and materials for glass. His genius is evident in his remarkable compositions of shapes and colours using different types of glass: drapery, Favrile, "confetti" and hammered glass, and as many as five superimposed layers. These processes raised all sorts of questions, both material and ethical.

The preparation of this exhibition called on teams and resources that went beyond the usual standards for museum practice. Overseeing this large-scale project was a scientific committee consisting of Rosalind Pepall, the Museum's Senior Curator of Decorative Arts and Chief Curator of the exhibition, Alice Cooney Frelinghuysen, curator of American decorative arts at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, and Martin Eildelberg, professor emeritus of art history at LA Rutgers University. This "dream team" wisely decided to focus its research efforts on the artist's glass production, resulting in a major leap forward in knowledge. While a large number of exhibitions had already been devoted to Tiffany, especially in the United States, none of them had explored this aspect of his work. The exhibition design by Hubert Le Gall - his fanciful floral carpet creating the impression of interior refinement, Tiffany objects being the epitome of luxury - was a big hit. Visitors appreciated the scientific approach, with its special focus on the technical aspect, which made the exhibition a hit with the public: attendance surpassed our projections, with nearly 120,000 visitors. Both the exhibition and the scholarly publication, a reference on Tiffany, drew unanimous praise from critics around the world. The curators paid particular attention to the authenticity, condition and age of the works, excluding all commercially produced and later works. The quality of the works on loan, some of the masterpieces that had rarely or never before been viewed in North America (the Magnolia stained glass from the Hermitage and a work based on Toulouse-Lautrec from the Musée d'Orsay) explains the public's keen interest, as does the emotional discovery of a forgotten piece of our national heritage, the monumental stained glass windows, which are now accessible to the public.

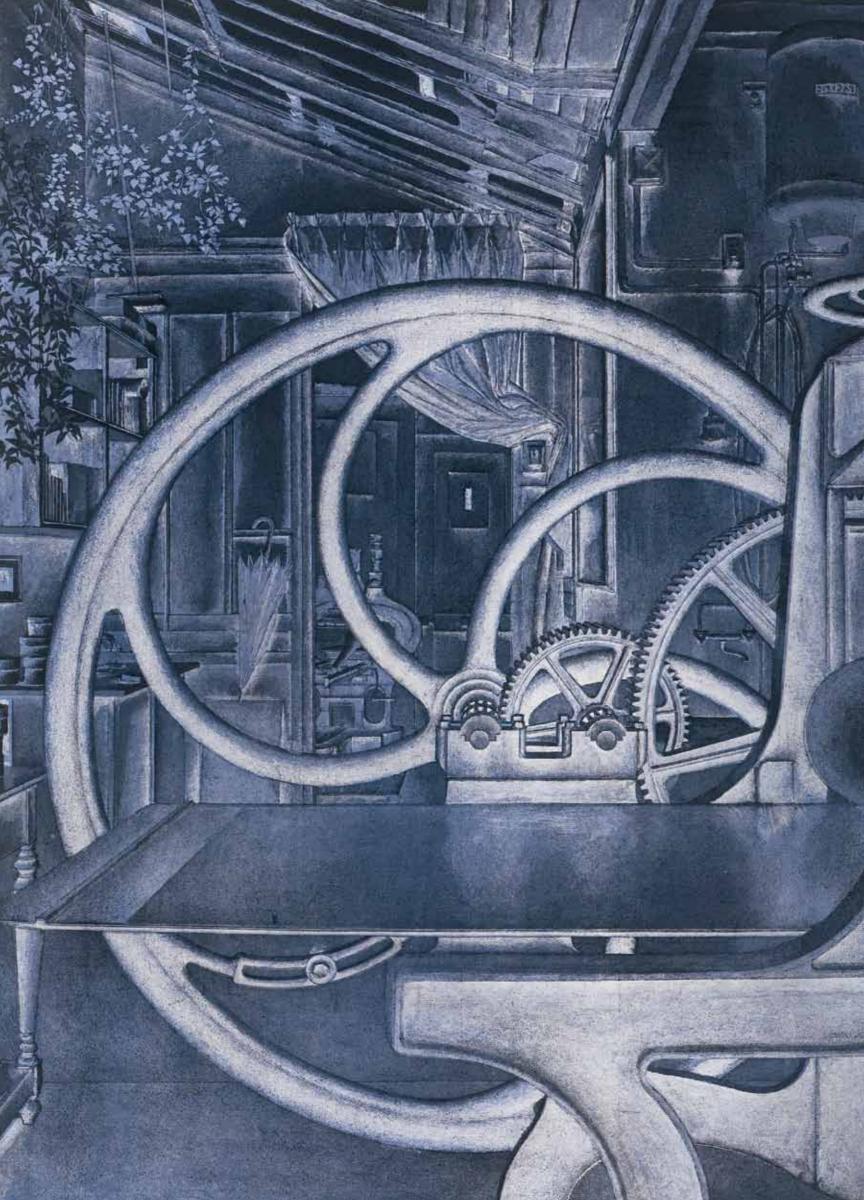

THE MUSEUM'S COMMITMENT TO CONTEMPORARY ART: TWICE AS MUCH SPACE AND EVEN MORE FREE EXHIBITIONS

I am convinced that if we are to more actively promote contemporary art and support this fragile yet essential network of artists, galleries, collectors, aficionados and students, not to mention develop a new audience, we must make it available free of charge. The Museum has resolved to engage further in this community by becoming a key partner and providing a forum.

We have transformed and reassigned the galleries under Sherbrooke Street, between the Jean-Noël Desmarais and Michal and Renata Hornstein Pavilions, and in the near future, the Claire and Marc Bourgie Pavilion of Quebec and Canadian Art. I would like to underscore that this expansion was made possible though a partnership with Loto-Québec. With the removal of the partitions that divided the galleries, the elegant structure of the concrete pillars that support the ceiling is now fully exposed. The new galleries, which were officially opened in the fall, give us twice as much space to devote to contemporary art so we can present an exciting thematic selection of works from our extensive collections every year. With the galleries completely empty, Stéphane Aquin, our Curator of Contemporary Art, had free reign to develop the first presentation of the 2009–2010 season, Global Warning: Scenes from a Planet under Pressure.

At the same time, the beautiful, impressive and very flexible square gallery on Level S2 of the Jean-Noël Desmarais Pavilion has become our new Contemporary Art Square. This gallery is now used for exhibitions of contemporary art, with free admission at all times, to inspire and promote contemporary artists and their works, a key task in building tomorrow's audiences and collections. Also with Stéphane Aquin, we decided to reinforce our exhibition programme, which is open to all modern disciplines - installation, design, haute couture, multimedia and also the visual arts - with projects developed in co-operation with artists in Canada and around the world. Following our tribute to the late Betty Goodwin, 1923-2008, In Memoriam, the Museum welcomed the work of First Nations artist Kent Monkman and his latest music and video installation, Dance to the Berdashe (now in the Museum's collection) and that of Quebec painter Pierre Dorion. For this first museum exhibition in his own city, the Montreal artist decided to present his most recent works as they relate to the photographic archives from which they were derived. We also acknowledged the support of Loto-Québec, a major player on Quebec's visual arts scene, with an exhibition celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of its collection.

THE NEW GRAPHIC ARTS CENTRE

The Museum has one of the largest collections of works on paper in Canada. With the crucial financial support of Freda and Irwin Browns, impassioned collectors of prints and major donors, our Archives and Exhibitions Production Department were able to complete the major move involving the 10,000 prints and drawings into a new, updated reserve, which has a consultation room accessible by appointment, and a much larger exhibition area for the graphic arts. The Centre opened with the first Canadian retrospective of a virtuoso contemporary printmaker, The Fantastical World of Érik Desmazières. Borrowed from the collection of Irhold Inc., Irwin Browns's company, it featured about sixty works representative of the French artist's career. At the same time, the exhibition The Painter as Printmaker: Impressionist Prints from the National Gallery of Canada presented some seventy rare works on paper illustrating the different techniques used by the most admired French artists of the period.

OUR EXHIBITIONS ABROAD

SAN FRANCISCO

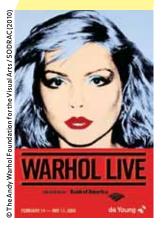

By far the most notable highlight of this fiscal year was the presentation of six of our exhibitions in six European and North American cities, an achievement for the record books. The result of new programming implemented as soon as I was appointed, all of the projects were sent abroad at the same time. The work done behind the scenes at the Museum weighed heavily on all of our teams - curatorial, administration, conservation, exhibitions production and communications – who invested considerable effort in following these projects beyond our borders.

Close to 900,000 people visited our Museum's exhibitions abroad. It was an outstanding opportunity to showcase our cultural metropolis. It all began in the winter with Yves Saint Laurent at the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, de Young, which attracted more than 260,000 visitors. The exhibition was organized by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, in partnership with the Fondation Pierre Bergé - Yves Saint Laurent. Warhol Live: Music and Dance in the Work of Andy Warhol, was then presented at this same museum before travelling to Pittsburgh for the summer season. Produced by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts in partnership with the Andy Warhol Museum, it received 130,000 visitors in San Francisco and 30,000 in Pittsburgh, including the First Ladies attending the G20 Summit. Also in the summer, ¡Cuba! Art and History from 1868 to Today was presented at the Groninger Museum, Netherlands, where it received 60,000 visitors. This exhibition was produced by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts in collaboration with the Museo Nacional de Bellas Artes et la Fototeca de Cuba in Havana; its catalogue was translated into Dutch (in addition to French, English and Spanish editions). At the same time, Van Dongen opened at the Museu Picasso, Barcelona, where it drew 180,000 visitors. This exhibition was produced by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts in collaboration with the Museu Picasso, Barcelona. Finally, in the fall, the exhibition created by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, Tiffany: Colour and Light was presented at the Musée du Luxembourg, Paris, for the first time in France since the World's Fair in 1900! Nearly 175,000 visitors viewed this exhibition. Last but not least, Expanding Horizons, organized by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, was presented at the Vancouver Art Gallery, where it was seen by close to 40,000 visitors.

Beyond raising the Museum's profile internationally, these partnerships enable us to sell the projects we develop and can therefore produce at a lower cost, while at the same time allowing each project to be more ambitious in scope. Increasingly, the Museum is positioning itself as a developer and producer of exhibitions: we do not have the bargaining chip of masterpieces that are as important as those of the world's great museums, so instead we come up with innovative concepts that we can circulate to other institutions. These events attracted close to 900,000 people abroad, in addition to the 611,000 visitors in Montreal. In total, nearly 1.5 million people took advantage of our exhibitions. We would like to thank our visitors, our partners and our many contributors, without whom none of this would be possible – at home or abroad.

I will conclude by offering my deepest gratitude to all of the Museum's employees, all the freelancers and volunteers who demonstrate remarkable commitment that is both sincere and determined. We are buoyed by their energy and enthusiasm. I cannot help but mention that this was an exceptional year, and the next one promises to be just as exceptional, for at the same time as they are radically reinventing the Museum, they continue to work tirelessly on an especially ambitious programme of exhibitions.

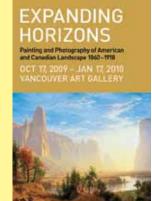

Lastly, thanks are due to all of our generous donors, collectors, governments and all those who truly believe we are a great Museum in the heart of a great city. PARIS

YVES SAINT LAURENT NOVEMBER 1, 2008 – APRIL 5, 2009 DE YOUNG MUSEUM, SAN FRANCISCO

SEPTEMBER 29, 2008

The passing of Yves Saint Laurent, one of the world's most prolific and influential designers, was occasion for articles and photo essays celebrating his life and career. But to truly understand the power and extent of Saint Laurent's oeuvre, one needs to see the clothes. Which is reason enough to visit the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts's retropective of Saint Laurent's, the first in more than 20 years.

MARCH 22, 2009

Imagine reliving John and Yoko's Montreal Bed-In... Taking place is Imagine, April 2 to June 21, a free exhibition at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, which will include art by Yoko Ono as well as photographs and news clips that chronicle the couple's weeklong peace protest.

The Gazette

MARCH 21, 2009

The intimacy will be captured in the MMFA. Strikingly, John and Yoko will be heard whispering and singing to one another from gallery to gallery as visitors take in Imagine's massive collection of 140 works...

APRIL 1, 2009

A splendid time is guaranteed for all. Yoko Ono met the media at the Museum of Fine Arts yesterday to discuss the exhibition Imagine: The Peace Ballad of John & Yoko, which opens tomorrow and marks the 40th anniversary of the couple's bed-in. Admission's free. "It goes with the idea that peace is for everybody," she said.

LA PRESSE

MONTREAL, APRIL 1, 2009 [The news conference] welcomed more than fifty journalists, including a dozen from the United States and Europe. Yoko Ono answered questions and took the opportunity to reiterate her message of peace. The free presentation at the Museum, a "revolutionary act" according Yoko Ono, includes more than 140 works, [including] several from Ono's personal collection.

Beaux Arts

PARIS, SPRING 2009 Huge success of the exhibition Imagine – the Peace Ballad of John & Yoko at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts (nearly 50,000 visitors in 22 days). More than an exhibition, this is a huge, free performance.

PARIS, SPRING 2009

On May 26, 2009, John Lennon and Yoko Ono spent a week in bed at Montreal's Queen Elizabeth Hotel to protest the Vietnam War. Forty years later. Yoko Ono returns to Libération to look back on an act of artistic activism that has become part of history. When museum guards urge visitors to draw on the walls and hammer nails, it's no ordinary event... Emma Lavigne (of Beaubourg) and Thierry Planelle (former artistic director of Virgin-EMI France) brought together 140 works from the visual arts and music, for this meeting between the underground artist and the global superstar. More than an exhibition, this was a great, free performance in which the public was invited to participate for two and a half months.

ART TIMES

NEW YORK, AUGUST 2009 Expanding Horizons, a sweeping presentation of landscapes that ranges over work produced by Canadian and American artists from 1860 to 1918, has been conceived, produced, and mounted with an eye not only towards art, but also with a very current eye that focuses on an eco-agenda — the "art" of going "green."

NEW YORK, AUGUST 2009

This is the first exhibition to compare and contrast the neighboring nations' visual culture in the crucial years that encompassed the Civil War, Confederation, and westward push to the Pacific. Almost 200 works by such U.S. masters... and by such Canadian counterparts... reveal much about the countries themselves.

PARIS, OCTOBER 2009 A unique opportunity to appreciate the finest masterpieces produced by Tiffany's techniques: sculpting and draping molten glass, superimposing layers of colour and different opaque tones to create perspective, embedding colourful shards of glass... To admire the stained glass windows in their full glory, you'll just have to travel to Canada this February...

The New York Times

FEBRUARY 12, 2010

Church windows going on view... in an exhibition of Louis Comfort Tiffany glass at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts are not on the road for the usual gloomy reasons that such stained glass has been removed from its original setting. The windows did not come from demolished buildings; instead they have been pulled temporarily out of an 1890s Presbyterian church next to the museum for restoration.

MANAGER

GUY SAVARD President of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts Foundation

A MUSEUM THAT IS SUPPORTED BY ITS COMMUNITY

September 2008 saw the launch of a fundraising campaign unprecedented in the Museum's history, with the goal of raising $100 million – $70 million in monetary donations and $30 million in donated works of art. The Museum Foundation's president at the time was Réal Raymond. I am grateful to him for his contribution in laying the groundwork for this campaign that, despite a troubled economy, will reach its initial goals if the current trend continues.

Indeed, the community's response to the campaign has been vigorous. Many donors were delighted by the idea of a new Pavilion of Quebec and Canadian Art, the Claire and Marc Bourgie Pavilion, and a new concert hall, Bourgie Hall. The Museum's contagious energy, with its programme of innovative international exhibitions and more than 600,000 annual visitors, 100,000 of whom take part in its educational, cultural and community activities, confirms that this institution must continue to grow and reinvent itself.

Generous collectors have agreed to donate works as part of the campaign 150 Gifts for Our 150th: Great Works for a Great Museum. The value of the donated works to date is close to $40 million. Monetary contributions from the federal and provincial governments total $26 million, for which I am deeply grateful. Without them, this imposing expansion project would not have been possible. I would also like to acknowledge the contribution of the City of Montreal, which will assume the cost of developing the public spaces outside the Museum and the sculpture garden flanking the new pavilion.

The CEOs of many major corporations and generous private patrons have agreed to support the campaign A Great Museum at the Heart of a Great City in the amount of $27 million. I would also like to thank all the others who have supported this campaign, especially the Bourgie family (Claire and Marc Bourgie, Claude Bourgie Bovet and Pierre Bourgie), Hydro-Québec, Power Corporation of Canada, Reitmans (Canada) Ltd, the National Bank of Canada, the J. Armand Bombardier Foundation, Pierre H. and Andrée D. Lessard, and those who, at the time of printing, wished to remain anonymous. The Museum's employees have been very generous, contributing more than $160,000 - 85 percent of employees made a donation, which is exceptional, given the context. I would like to mention the exemplary generosity of several other donors and congratulate our indispensable volunteer canvassers, who worked tirelessly to secure donations and make this campaign a success we can all take pride in.

I also have warm thanks for the campaign's co-chairs for their energy and their unflagging efforts: Thierry Vandal, President and CEO of Hydro-Québec; Robert E. Brown, President and CEO of CAE; and Norman M. Steinberg, Co-chair of Ogilvy Renault. The Chairman of the Museum's Board of Trustees, Brian M. Levitt, also invested considerable time and energy in helping us reach our ambitious target.

In the fall of 2010, the campaign will continue, this time focussing on the senior management of SMEs, members of the Museum and the general public, who will be canvassed to show their support for this venerable Montreal institution.

Since I was myself president of the Foundation for many years, at the time it was established and during the 1998–2002 Major Campaign, I am well aware that if our Museum is to continue to thrive and contribute to Montreal's success, every dollar will count. Every donation to the Museum and its Foundation enables us to continue offering free admission to our permanent collection and pursuing our educational and community mission.

For this reason, we restructured the donor recognition programme over the past year to provide more incentives for donating to the Museum. The effects of this restructuring could be felt during the Annual Fund-raising Campaign that ran concurrently with the Major Campaign, generating nearly $700,000. A resounding "thank you" to all of the Museum's members, patrons of the President's Circle and other donors who believe in our mission and in completing the many projects that confirm the Museum's important role in the development of a large city like Montreal. All of this support is crucial.

The Arte Musica Foundation, with Pierre Bourgie as its president, also made progress in 2009-2010. Music at the Museum is now a reality, and the public has responded very enthusiastically to the many activities the Foundation has already developed and implemented. Even before the new Bourgie Hall is officially opened (in September 2011), we have seen how this new facet of the Museum will contribute to bringing in new audiences. The Foundation, headed by Isolde Lagacé, has been in residence at the Museum since September 2008. Its mandate is to develop a rich musical programme that includes concerts and educational activities. Thanks to a generous patron, the Museum recently purchased two new Steinway grand pianos.

In conclusion, I would be remiss if I did not applaud the colossal efforts made by Nathalie Bondil, the Museum's Director and Chief Curator, and her team. I congratulate her for her creative vision, which helps raise our institution's profile and makes it a driving force in our city. I hope that in 2010–2011 Montrealers will continue to heed the example of all those who, for the past 150 years, have helped entrench the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts in its community. I also hope that many of them will join us in further strengthening the Museum's roots and give it even broader wings.

At the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, it is a tradition to add up to the credit of the donor all the donations – be they gifts of money and/or property - received over the years in order to bestow on them the title of Distinguished Member. According to article 3 of the regulation respecting the general administration of the Museum, the category of Distinguished Member includes eight sub-categories, with thresholds that vary between $2,000 and $500,000.

On March 31, 2010, the Museum had 2,153 Distinguished Members. We are pleased to publish the names of those individuals whose annual contribution enabled them to attain the status of Distinguished Member or accede to a higher category. We offer them our sincere congratulations.

THE MUSEUM VOLUNTEER ASSOCIATION'S REPORT

SUZANNE LEGGE ORR Co-president

ANGÈLE MARTINEAU

Co-president

It is with a great feeling of accomplishment that the Volunteer Association completed its sixty-second year of operations. Conscious of the economic climate, the Volunteers worked tirelessly to ensure the success of the Association's fund-raising activities. The outstanding results speak for themselves: the community rallied around the Museum, as both individuals and corporations provided financial support and most importantly, their presence. We were touched by this incredible level of support given the challenging economic environment. The Montreal community truly loves the Museum and our Association's fund-raising activities!

Glittering, glistening glamour – that was the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts on the occasion of the forty-ninth annual ball, The Velvet Ball. Crystal chandeliers, silver candelabras, gleaming cutlery, plume-filled silver vases, shining goblets and cut-glass plates shimmered against a backdrop of black velvet. Not only was the decor aglitter, so were the guests. The sparkling mood was created by the wizardry of Scott Yetman, who captured the essence of the Napoleonic era, a theme chosen to highlight the recent donation by the late Ben Weider of his Napoleonic collection. Due to the generosity of the glitterati in attendance, the sponsorships, donations of time and money and the Volunteer Association's strict budget, the Museum Ball raised an amazing record-breaking net profit of $1,215,000. Many thanks to the winning team: the Honorary Co-presidents Stéphane Boisvert and George Cope, and Ball President Linda Greenberg, who worked so diligently with the Ball Steering Committee.

It was Montreal's most glamorous and spectacular event of the year! On May 2, 2009, the fifth edition of the Eyes Wide Open Masked Soirée – GEISHA combined seduction, white powder and silent dolls to re-create the sublime charm of the pleasure quarters of the Orient to the delight of the 850 guests. The event design was a creation of François Martin, Director of Food Services at Cirque du Soleil. Jean-François Bouchard, Vice-President, New Show Creation at Cirque du Soleil, served as the Honorary President of the event. In a sumptuous ambience, bewitchments and delights mingled with the energetic rhythms of D.J. YO-C, the appearances of costumed characters from the Emperor's palace and the performances of shibari and live butoh painting by the renowned urban graffiti artist Zilon. This spectacular event enabled the Volunteer Association of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts to generate a net profit of over $92,000.

In December, four Christmas concerts were presented in the Hall of Mirrors on the four Sundays of Advent. These free concerts were organized by Lucette Leclerc and her committee. The audience was won over by the performances of the incredibly talented choirs. Visitors could also enjoy the exhibition of Christmas trees decorated by over thirty-five different cultural associations thanks to Louise Druckman and her team.

The Cultural Tours Committee organized trips and excursions for the enjoyment of many Museum VIPs. These tours brought them to Trois-Rivières, Ottawa, Toronto, Lanaudière, Charlevoix, the Eastern Townships and Quebec City.

This year, the Volunteer Association presented a generous cheque in the amount of $1,100,000 to the Museum. Of these funds, $250,000 will be put towards a specific programme organized by the Education and Community Programmes Department, $705,000 will go towards the publication of visitors' guides to permanent collections – Canadian art, European art and ancient cultures, and decorative art and design – and $145,000 will contribute to the acquisition of three works of art: Dorian FitzGerald's The Throne Room, Queluz National Palace, Sintra, Portugal, the bronze Richard Wagner by Boleslas Biegas and a rare ceramic vessel by Émile Gallé. Many thanks to all those who support the Association's activities and make such a gift to the Museum possible!

The Volunteer Association extends its most sincere thanks to everyone who participated in the organization of these events and all the companies and members of the general public who supported them.

THE MUSEUM'S ASSOCIATION OF VOLUNTEER GUIDES' REPORT

GRACE POWELL Co-president

CLAIRE LARAMÉE Co-president

This past year, our ninety-three Volunteer Guides pursued their mission of enhancing the Museum experience for visitors. Our Guides shared their love and knowledge of art with over 33,000 visitors from all walks of life on tours of the permanent collection and temporary exhibitions.

In the summer of 2009, Expanding Horizons: Painting and Photography of American and Canadian Landscape 1860–1918 presented sublime paintings and photographs depicting the expansion westwards in Canada and the United States from the Civil War to the end of World War I. This exhibition gave the Guides an opportunity to delve into this particular period of our art history, which is less well known. This new knowledge is sure to be put to good use with the upcoming opening of the new Pavilion of Quebec and Canadian Art.

J. W. Waterhouse: Garden of Enchantment was a sumptuous feast of colour, drama and storytelling that all visitors responded to with great pleasure. The legend of The Lady of Shalott, with its rarely lent painting from the Tate, was particularly appreciated by visitors.

Tiffany Glass: A Passion for Colour gave the Guides the opportunity to broaden their knowledge on the techniques of glass. It was also the ideal time to introduce our community to the exquisite Tiffany stained glass windows that will be reinstalled in Bourgie Hall. Visitors greatly appreciated being able to see the windows up close and learn about the special techniques Tiffany developed to make his works glow with colour and vibrancy. It was a unique opportunity to share part of Montreal's heritage with our audience.

The Volunteer Guides offer tours of the permanent collection to school groups. Unfortunately, the number of visitors from Englishspeaking schools has continued to decline. Efforts must be made to win back schools that have visited the Museum in the past and to encourage both local and out-of-town schools who have not visited us before.

A variety of different types of tours of the permanent collection have proven popular with visitors. The in-depth "Art Walk" tours, which explored European Art, Decorative Arts and the Contemporary Art Collection, have drawn visitors interested in delving deeper into art history, while our "Museum Noontime Tours" have appealed to visitors looking for an overview of the collections of Pre-Columbian Art, African Art, Contemporary Glass and the Napoleonic collection. The addition of the Joe and Anna Mendel glass collection has added an interesting and perhaps lesser-known art form to the tours offered to our visitors.

The Guides are always open to offering new programmes that would enhance our offerings to the public. We all look forward to the wonderful new gallery space that the opening of the new Claire and Marc Bourgie Pavilion will offer our visitors.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE MONTREAL MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS

MARCH 31, 2010

To the Members of The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts

We have audited the balance sheet of The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts (the "Museum") as at March 31, 2010, and the statements of revenue and expenses and changes in net assets and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Museum's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Museum as at March 31, 2010, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

1. STATUS AND NATURE OF ACTIVITIES

The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, a not-for-profit organization, encourages the plastic arts and an appreciation thereof and acquires, conserves, collects, promotes, and exhibits works of art on behalf of the citizens of Montreal, the province of Quebec, Canada and elsewhere. The Museum is incorporated as a private corporation under the Loi sur le Musée des beaux-arts de Montréal and is a registered charity within the meaning of the Income Tax Act.

In order to maintain its registered charity status, the Museum must meet certain spending requirements ("disbursement quota") according to the Income Tax Act. The disbursement quota is a minimum amount that the registered charity must spend on charitable programs or as gifts to qualified donees. Failure to comply with this requirement could lead to a revocation of the Museum's registered charity status. As at March 31, 2010, the Museum complies with the requirement.

2. CHANGES IN ACCOUNTING POLICIES

On April 1, 2009, the Museum adopted the changes made to Section 1540, 4400 and 4460 of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA") Handbook. The adoption of these new standards had no impact on the financial statements of the Museum, except for the presentation of revenue and expenses of various projects in 2009 at their gross amounts, the segregation of investing activities and financing activities on the statement of cash flows and the presentation of bank loans in financing activities.

3. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Museum has elected to use the exemption provided by the CICA permitting not-for-profit organizations not to apply the following Sections of the CICA Handbook: 3862 and 3863, which would otherwise have applied to the financial statements of the Museum for the year ended March 31, 2010. The Museum applies the requirements of Section 3861 of the CICA Handbook, concerning the presentation and disclosures on financial instruments.

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") and reflect the following significant accounting policies:

FUND ACCOUNTING

The Museum uses the deferral method to account for contributions and follows the fund accounting method, whereby resources are classified into funds in accordance with specified activities or objectives.

i) General Fund

The General Fund reports the assets, liabilities, revenues and operating expenses related to the Museum's day-to-day operating activities. Endowments, the income from which is to be used to increase the original endowment and for day-to-day operations, are presented as restricted net assets of the General Fund.

ii) Capital Assets Fund

The Capital Assets Fund reports the assets, liabilities, revenues and operating expenses related to capital assets and the restricted contributions specifically related thereto.

Deferred contributions of the Capital Assets Fund combine federal and provincial grants and the donations specifically restricted for the financing of the buildings.

iii) Acquisitions Fund

The Acquisitions Fund reports the assets, liabilities, revenues and operating expenses related to acquisitions of works of art and endowments, the income from which is to be used to increase the original endowment and to purchase works of art.

REVENUE RECOGNITION

Restricted contributions are recognized as revenue of the appropriate fund in the year the related expenses are incurred. Unrestricted contributions are recognized as revenue of the appropriate fund when received or receivable, if the amount can be reasonably estimated and collection is reasonably assured.

Endowment contributions are recognized as direct increases in net assets. Restricted investment income is recognized as revenue of the appropriate fund. Unrestricted investment income is recognized as revenue of the General Fund.

FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Financial assets and financial liabilities are initially recognized at fair value and their subsequent measurement is dependent on their classification as described below. Their classification depends on the purpose for which the financial instruments were acquired or issued, their characteristics and the Museum's designation of such instruments. Settlement date accounting is used.

Classification

Cash and term deposits	Held for trading
Accounts receivable	Loans and receivables
Amount receivable - Foundation	Loans and receivables
Grants receivable	Loans and receivables
Investments	Available-for-sale
Bank overdraft	Other liabilities
Bank loans	Other liabilities
Accrued interest	Other liabilities
Accounts payables and accrued liabilities	Other liabilities
Advance from the Foundation	Other liabilities
Long-term debt	Other liabilities

Held for trading

Held-for-trading financial assets are financial assets typically acquired for resale prior to maturity or that are designated as held for trading. They are measured at fair value at the balance sheet date. Fair value fluctuations, including interest earned, interest accrued, gains and losses realized on disposal and unrealized gains and losses are included in investment income.

Available-for-sale

Available-for-sale financial assets are those non-derivative financial assets that are designated as available-for-sale, or that are not classified as loans and receivables, held-to-maturity or held-for-trading investments. Except as mentioned below, available-for-sale financial assets are carried at fair value with unrealized gains and losses included in the net assets until they are realized when the cumulative gain or loss is transferred to investment income.

Available-for-sale financial assets that do not have quoted market prices in an active market are recorded at cost.

Interest on interest-bearing available-for-sale financial assets is calculated using the effective interest method.

Loans and receivables

Loans and receivables are accounted for at amortized cost using the effective interest method.

Other liabilities

Other liabilities are recorded at amortized cost using the effective interest method and include all financial liabilities, other than derivative instruments.

Transaction costs

Transaction costs related to held-for-trading financial assets are expensed as incurred. Transaction costs related to available-for-sale financial assets, held-to-maturity financial assets, other liabilities and loans and receivables are netted against the carrying value of the asset or liability and are then recognized over the expected life of the instrument using the effective interest method.

Effective interest method

The Museum uses the effective interest method to recognize interest revenue or expenses, which include transaction costs as well as fees, premiums and discounts earned or incurred on financial instruments.

INTERFUND BALANCES

Interfund balances comprise non-interest-bearing interfund advances, without specific terms of repayment.

BOUTIQUE AND BOOKSTORE INVENTORIES

Inventories are valued at the lower of cost and net realizable value, cost calculated using the first-in first-out method.

ACCUMULATED INTEREST

The interest accumulated during the realization of the expansion project of the Jean-Noël Desmarais Pavilion was accumulated separately from the cost of construction and is being recovered through an annual grant from the Ministère de la Culture, des Communications et de la Condition féminine.

CAPITAL ASSETS

Capital assets are recorded at cost in the Capital Assets Fund and are amortized using the straight-line method over the following periods:

Buildings	40 years
Furniture and equipment	5 years

CONSTRUCTION IN PROGRESS

Construction in progress is recorded at cost in the Acquisition Fund. All costs incurred, both direct and indirect, are capitalized during the construction. During the period, interest capitalized is $111,561 (nil in 2009).

EMPLOYEE FUTURE BENEFITS

The cost of the Museum's defined benefit pension plan and post-employment benefit plan are determined periodically by independent actuaries. The actuarial valuation is based on the projected benefit method prorated on service (which incorporates management's best estimate of future salary levels, other cost escalation, retirement ages of employees and other actuarial factors). For the purpose of calculating the expected rate of return on plan assets, those assets are valued at fair value. The post-employment benefit plan is not capitalized.

Actuarial gains or losses arise from the difference between the actual long-term rate of return on pension plan assets for the year and the expected long-term rate of return on pension plan assets for that year, or from changes in actuarial assumptions used to determine the accrued benefit obligation. The excess of the net accumulated actuarial gain (loss) over 10% of the greater of the benefit obligation and the fair value of the pension plan assets is amortized over the average remaining service period of active employees, being 13 years (14 years in 2009).

Past service costs arising from plan amendments are deferred and amortized on a straight-line basis over the average remaining service period of employees active at the date of the amendments.

DEFERRED CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions restricted to future period expenses are deferred and recognized as revenue in the year in which the related expenses are incurred.

Deferred contributions reported in the Capital Assets Fund include the unamortized portion of contributions received specifically to defray the cost of the related capital assets and are amortized on the same basis.

WORKS OF ART

The Museum's permanent collection comprises paintings, sculptures, drawings and prints, furniture and decorative arts. The permanent collection is not reflected in the financial statements. Donated works of art are accounted for at fair value based on external appraisal reports. They are fully amortized in the year of acquisition.

USE OF ESTIMATES

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Canadian GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

9. EMPLOYEE FUTURE BENEFITS

PENSION PLAN

The Museum has a defined benefit pension plan offered to non-unionized employees of the Museum. The benefits of this plan are based on years of service and final earnings. Management has decided that there would not be any new beneficiaries of this plan as of June 1, 2008. As of that date, new, non-unionized employees of the Museum benefit from a new defined contribution plan.

The Museum measures its accrued benefit obligations and the fair value of plan assets for accounting purposes as at December 31 of each year. The most recent actuarial valuation for funding purposes was performed as at December 31, 2007, and the next required valuation will be performed as at December 31, 2010.

Information about the plan is as follows:

Accrued benefit obligations Fair value of plan assets	(8,090,600) 8,069,800

POST-EMPLOYMENT BENEFIT PLAN

The Museum has a post-employment benefit plan offered to all current retirees of the Museum. The benefits of this plan are based on years of service and final earnings. Management has decided that there would not be any new beneficiaries of this plan as of January 1, 2010.

The Museum measures its accrued benefit obligations for accounting purposes as at December 31 of each year.

Information about the plan is as follows:

	2010	2009

The Museum has started a construction project with an estimated cost of $34,000,000. As at March 31, 2010, an amount of $22,366,240 is presented in the balance sheet as "Construction in progress".

12. RELATED ORGANIZATIONS AND TRANSACTIONS

THE MONTREAL MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS FOUNDATION

The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts Foundation (the "Foundation") is considered, for accounting purposes, to be a related organization, as certain members of the Museum's Board of Trustees are ex-officio members of the Board of Trustees of the Foundation. The Foundation, incorporated on March 24, 1994 under Part III of the Companies Act (Québec), is a registered charity. The Foundation is mainly involved in soliciting and receiving donations, bequests and other contributions on behalf of the Museum and administering its funds. In addition, the Museum has entrusted the Foundation with the management of certain investments.

Every year the Foundation organizes and manages a fund-raising campaign (the "Annual Campaign"), the proceeds of which are paid entirely to the Museum to finance its operations. The Museum's financial statements show $979,804 ($1,306,276 in 2009) in revenue from the Foundation, of which an amount of $608,430 ($608,501 in 2009) is presented in "Donations and sponsorships", an amount of $211,376 ($154,311 in 2009) was used to repay the operating expenses of the Foundation that were assumed by the Museum, and an amount of $159,998 ($543,464 in 2009) was used to repay the expenses incurred for the 150th anniversary Campaign. These two last amounts are presented in "Miscellaneous" revenue. The Foundation also paid the following amounts to the Museum: $10,561 ($52,127 in 2009) for acquisitions of works of art and $5,000 ($5,000 in 2009) for educational activities (presented in "Endowment contributions").

The Foundation also organizes and manages major fund-raising campaigns. From these campaigns, the Museum recorded an amount of $828,512 ($2,181,842 in 2009) as follows: $136,570 ($133,400 in 2009) for the acquisition of works of art of which a portion of $136,570 ($115,939 in 2009) presented in "Donations from the Foundation" and nil ($17,461 in 2009) presented in "Donations and sponsorships", nil ($75,000 in 2009) for the Museum's day-today operations presented in "Donations and sponsorships", $61,031 ($18,900 in 2009) for educational activities included in "Donations from the Foundation", $584,040 ($922,900 in 2009) for exhibitions included in "Donations from the Foundation" and $31,871 ($1,031,642 in 2009) for the acquisition of Erskine and American Church and two buildings on Bishop Street presented in "Deferred contributions" and $15,000 (nil in 2009) for the Marc-Aurèle Fortin project, also presented in "Deferred contributions".

The advance from the Foundation bears interest at the prime rate charged to the Museum on the Foundation line of credit (2.5% as at March 31, 2010). Interest expense on this advance is $61,250 in 2009–2010 ($78,522 in 2008–2009) for the year ended March 31, 2010, and is presented in "Interest projects".

VOLUNTEER ASSOCIATION OF THE MONTREAL MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS

The Volunteer Association of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts (the "Association") is a separate not-for-profit entity incorporated under Part III of the Companies Act (Québec). The purpose of the Association is to organize public fund-raising events for the benefit of the Museum.

The Association made a $1,100,000 donation ($900,000 in 2009) to the Museum. From this donation, an amount of $832,769 ($755,000 in 2009) is presented in "Donations and sponsorships", an amount of $145,000 (nil in 2009) is presented in "Interfund balances", an amount of $100,000 ($125,000 in 2009) is presented in "Deferred contributions" and an amount of $22,231 (nil in 2009) is presented as "Annual Campaign". The balance of nil ($125,000 in 2009) is presented as "Deferred contributions". An amount of $100,000 ($900,000 in 2009) is included in accounts receivable as at March 31, 2010.

13. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The Museum holds and issues financial instruments such as investments, grants receivable and debt instruments. The investments consist of:

	2010	2009
Cash	93,152	101,568
Money Market	543,852	713
Canadian Bond Pooled Fund	4,529,266	4,739,231

International Equity Pooled Fund	248,658	1,581,104
	13,610,668	11,565,471

FAIR VALUE

The fair value of investments is based on quoted market prices at the reporting date. The fair value of the long-term debt is measured by discounting expected residual cash flows at the year-end prime interest rate. Therefore, due to subjective judgment and uncertainty, the aggregate fair value amount should not be interpreted as the realizable value in an immediate settlement of the instruments.

As at March 31, 2010 and 2009, the carrying value of all financial instruments approximated fair value, with the following exceptions:

	20	10	20	009
	Carrying value	Fair value	Carrying value	Fair value
General Fund Grants receivable Long-term debt	4,269,387 (2,482,046)	5,172,714 (3,385,373)	3,457,315 (2,832,962)	3,345,001 (2,720,648)
Capital Assets Fund Grants receivable Long-term debt	14,099,766 (19,867,171)	15,215,883 (20,581,919)	16,162,603 (22,112,476)	18,171,491 (24,676,089)

MARKET RISK

Market risk is the risk investments in mutual funds are exposed to that is caused by changes in interest rates, stock exchange indicators and the level of volatility of these rates.

CREDIT RISK

The Museum has determined that credit risk is minimal given that the counterparties with which it conducts business are mainly government agencies.

INTEREST RATE RISK

In its investment portfolio, the Museum holds interests in bond mutual funds. The bonds in these mutual funds bear interest at fixed rates. Consequently, a change in market interest rates will affect the fair value of the bond mutual funds.

14. COLLECTION OF THE MUSEUM

In its mission to attract the widest possible range of visitors, the Museum has, over the last 149 years of its existence, assembled one of the most significant and eclectic collections in North America.

The collection includes mainly paintings, drawings and prints, photographs, sculptures, installations, jewellery, woodcraft, ceramics, furniture and precious metal artifacts.

The collection has a global reach and covers all historical eras, from antiquity to the present day.

15. COMPARATIVE FIGURES

Certain comparative figures have been reclassified to conform to the current year's presentation.

Interest rate risk related to long-term debt is judged to be low, as most of the debt (including interest payments) is subsidized by the Government of Quebec and the non-subsidized portion bears interest at fixed rates.

CURRENCY RISK

In its investment portfolio, the Museum holds interests in U.S. and international securities and in mutual funds invested in U.S. and international securities. Consequently, a currency fluctuation will have an impact on the market value of these investments. Also, accounts payable and accrued liabilities on the balance sheet include an amount of $158,000 (nil in 2009) denominated in euros.

The value of the collection is not reflected in the financial statements. Acquisitions are accounted for as expenses in the Acquisitions Fund. Donated works of art are accounted for at fair value based on external appraisal reports. They are fully amortized in the year of acquisition (see Note 3).

Restoration costs during the year amounted to approximately $461,291 ($962,826 in 2009).

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE MONTREAL MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS FOUNDATION

MARCH 31, 2010

To the Trustees of The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts Foundation

We have audited the balance sheet of The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts Foundation as at March 31, 2010, and the statements of operations and changes in net assets for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Foundation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates $% \left(f_{i}, f_{i}$ made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Foundation as at March 31, 2010, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

1. STATUS AND NATURE OF ACTIVITIES

The Montreal Museum of Fine Arts Foundation (the "Foundation") is incorporated as a not-for-profit organization under Part III of the Companies Act (Québec). The Foundation is a registered charity and a public foundation within the meaning of the Income Tax Act. The Foundation is involved mainly in soliciting and collecting donations, bequests and other contributions on behalf of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts (the "Museum") and in administering its funds. In addition, under Article 4 of the agreement between the Foundation and the Museum, the Museum has entrusted the Foundation with the administration of certain investments. These investments are excluded from the Foundation's financial statements.

2. CHANGES IN ACCOUNTING POLICIES

On April 1, 2009, the Foundation adopted the changes made to Sections 4400 and 4460 of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA") Handbook. The adoption of these new standards had no impact on the financial statements, except for the presentation of revenue and expenses at their gross amounts for investment income, investment management fees and safekeeping charges.

3. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Foundation has elected to use the exception provided by the CICA permitting not-for-profit organizations to not apply Sections 3862 and 3863 of the CICA Handbook, which would otherwise have applied to the financial statements of the Foundation for the year ended March 31, 2010. The Foundation applies the requirements of Section 3861 of the CICA Handbook concerning the presentation and disclosures on financial instruments.

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") and reflect the following significant accounting policies:

RESTRICTED FUND ACCOUNTING

The Foundation follows the restricted fund method, whereby resources are classified into funds in accordance with specified activities or objectives.

i) General Fund

The General Fund reports the assets and liabilities, revenue and expenses related to the Foundation's day-to-day operating activities as well as any other unrestricted fund item or restricted fund item, the materiality of which does not justify separate reporting.

ii) Restricted funds

Each restricted fund reports its assets and liabilities, revenue and operating expenses in accordance with its respective activities and purpose.

The funds report the allocation of restricted donations with a minimum ten-year conservation clause and those with no similar clause separately. These donations are recorded in the statement of revenue and expenses in the fund corresponding to their restriction.

The Foundation contributes to funding the Museum's operations through the earnings on the investments in accordance with the objective of each fund.

FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Financial assets and financial liabilities are initially recognized at fair value and their subsequent measurement is dependent upon their classification as described below. Their classification depends on the purpose for which the financial instruments were acquired or issued, their characteristics and the Foundation's designation of such instruments. Settlement date accounting is used.

Classification
Cash	Held for trading
Accounts receivable	Loans and receivables
Due from the Museum	Loans and receivables
Investments	Available-for-sale
Due to the Museum	Other liabilities

In order to maintain its registered charity status, the Foundation must meet certain annual spending requirements ("disbursement quota") according to the Income Tax Act. The disbursement quota is a minimum amount that the registered charity must spend on charitable programs or as gifts to qualified donees. Failure to comply with these requirements could lead to a revocation of the Foundation's registered charity status. As at March 31, 2010, the Foundation complies with the requirements.

Held for trading

Held-for-trading financial assets are financial assets typically acquired for resale prior to maturity or that are designated as held for trading. They are measured at fair value at the balance sheet date. Fair value fluctuations including interest earned, interest accrued, gains and losses realized on disposal and unrealized gains and losses are included in other revenue.

Loans and receivables

Loans and receivables are accounted for at amortized cost using the effective interest method.

Available-for-sale

Available-for-sale financial assets are those non-derivative financial assets that are designated as available-for-sale, or that are not classified as loans and receivables, held-to-maturity or held-for-trading investments. Except as mentioned below, available-for-sale financial assets are carried at fair value with unrealized gains and losses included in net assets until they are realized when the cumulative gain or loss is transferred to investment income.

Available-for-sale financial assets that do not have quoted market prices in an active market are recorded at cost.

Interest on interest-bearing available-for-sale financial assets is calculated using the effective interest method.

Other liabilities

Other liabilities are recorded at amortized cost using the effective interest method and include all financial liabilities, other than derivative instruments.

Transaction costs

Transaction costs related to held-for-trading financial assets are expensed as incurred. Transaction costs related to available-for-sale financial assets, held-to-maturity financial assets, other liabilities and loans and receivables are netted against the carrying value of the asset or liability and are then recognized over the expected life of the instrument using the effective interest method.

Effective interest method

The Foundation uses the effective interest method to recognize interest revenue or expense, which includes transaction costs or fees, premiums or discounts earned or incurred for financial instruments.

CONTRIBUTED SERVICES

Volunteers contribute a significant amount of time each year to the Foundation, and the Museum's resources and premises are made available to the Foundation. Because of the difficulty of determining their fair value, contributed services are not recognized in the financial statements.

USE OF ESTIMATES

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Canadian GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

4. INVESTMENTS

Foundation of Greater Montreal Fund	990,422	410,064
	19,444,450	13,891,192

5. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Donations made by the Foundation to the Museum are presented separately in the statement of revenue and expenses.

The due from Museum bears interest at the prime rate charged to the Museum on its line of credit (2.5% as at March 31, 2010) without specific terms of repayment. Interest revenue related to this due amounts to $61,250 for the year ended March 31, 2010 ($78,522 in 2009), and is included in investment income.

The Museum pays certain expenses of the Foundation. These expenses are reimbursed to the Museum and are presented as an increase in donations to the Museum and amount to $371,374 ($697,775 in 2009).

These transactions are made in the normal course of operations and are recorded at the exchange amount.

6. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Due to its financial assets and liabilities, the Foundation is exposed to the following risks related to its use of financial instruments.

MARKET RISK

Market risk is the risk investments in mutual funds are exposed to that is caused by changes in interest rates, stock exchange indicators and the level of volatility of these rates.

CURRENCY RISK

The Foundation holds investments in U.S. and international securities and in mutual funds invested in U.S. and international securities. Consequently, fluctuations in currency will have an impact on the market value of these investments.

7. STATEMENT OF CASH FLOWS

A cash flow statement has not been prepared since the cash flow information is readily apparent from other financial statements and related notes.

8. COMPARATIVE FIGURES

Certain comparative figures have been reclassified to conform to the current year's presentation.

CREDIT RISK

The Foundation's principal financial assets are cash, accounts receivable and investments, which are subject to credit risk. The carrying amounts of financial assets on the balance sheet represents the Foundation's maximum credit exposure at the balance sheet date.

FAIR VALUE

The fair value of accounts receivable, due from and to the Museum is approximately equal to their carrying values due to their short-term maturity.
