EXPLANATORY NOTES

Firstly, this bill amends the Financial Administration Act to allow the Minister of Finance to pay and receive sums of money in order to guarantee obligations resulting from certain financial transactions and, for the purpose of exercising such guarantees, to make it possible for compensation to be invoked against the State.

Secondly, it amends the Act respecting insurance to give the insured of a damage insurer controlled by one or more mutual insurance associations rights similar to those of the insured of those associations.

Thirdly, the Act respecting the Autorité des marchés financiers is amended so that a certificate issued by the Authority will constitute proof of its content in any proceeding.

Fourthly, the Act respecting financial services cooperatives is amended to allow the Fédération des caisses Desjardins du Québec, when it makes a capital issue in favour of its credit unions, to use the process provided for in the Act even if the securities of the credit unions are held through a subsidiary of the federation.

Fifthly, the Money-Services Businesses Act is amended so that the security clearance report issued for each holder of a money services business licence will be updated every three years, instead of relying solely on voluntary reporting by such businesses.

Sixthly, the Derivatives Act and the Securities Act are amended to provide that an attempt to manipulate the market or to defraud a person constitutes an offence.

Seventhly, the Securities Act is further amended to standardize the fines payable for a distribution without a prospectus, introduce a definition of “market participant” and introduce provisions to allow securities dealer and adviser representatives to carry on their activities within a business corporation.

Finally, adjustments are made to the English text of the Act respecting insurance and the Business Corporations Act.
