WRITTEN QUESTIONS

Questions already placed on the Order Paper
are published each Wednesday

- (196) Mrs. David (Gouin) – 4 October 2016
To the Minister of Employment and Social Solidarity

In committee, the Minister argued that the Aim for Employment Program, introduced by Bill 70, must contain "reciprocity" measures and financial penalties. To back up his argument, the Minister referred several times to the fact that the current programs have poor participation rates. In follow-up to these discussions, I have questions for the Government with regard to the statistical information relating to the discussions on the Aim for Employment Program.

In order to have a dispassionate and informed debate, I ask the Minister to provide the following statistics for the last three calendar years (2013 to 2015):

1. How many persons applied for social assistance?
2. Among these persons, how many:
 - a. were deemed as having a temporarily limited capacity or a severely limited capacity?
 - b. got off social assistance within a year?
 - c. took part in an employment assistance measure?
 - i. and which measures?
 - ii. with which organizations (the CLE directly, CJE, integration groups, etc.)?
 - iii. for how long?
 - d. completed or discontinued these measures?
 - i. on what grounds in the case of discontinuation?

Can the Minister provide us with these statistics broken down and with references, particularly regarding family status, gender, age, region, educational attainment, citizenship, etc.?

(210) Mr. Jolin-Barrette (Borduas) – 10 November 2016
To the Minister of Justice

On 13 July 2015, pursuant to section 115.1 of the Professional Code, the Minister of Justice constituted a new bureau of disciplinary council chairs known as the Bureau des présidents. The creation of this Bureau was an innovation in the professional justice system. It aimed particularly at correcting the problem of the very long periods that certain disciplinary council chairs of several professional orders took to deliberate.

Over the past year and half, eleven chairs have been appointed. They have handed down 352 decisions, as at 31 May 2016, concerning members of professional orders. The chairs' powers are important. Furthermore, the Office des professions wants the Bureau des présidents to handle one thousand complaints per year.

It is urgent that a code of ethics governing the work of chairs be established.

The chairs' code of ethics is not yet in force. We have the following questions for the Minister of Justice:

1. We would like to know when the code of ethics for the chairs of the Bureau des présidents of the Office des professions will come into force?
2. Will the Minister of Justice develop a code of ethics for members of professional orders sitting on the disciplinary council?

To the Minister of Energy and Natural Resources

On 16 October 2014, the MERN released the Government action plan for the inspection of Québec's inactive oil and gas wells. With special attention given to the 700 abandoned wells on the territory, this action plan indicates that the Government wants to pick up the pace to complete the inspection of inactive wells by 2017 and begin the restoration of problem sites as soon as 2015. Moreover, the Government specifies in this plan that, for the sake of transparency, it will make the information on inactive wells available to citizens as work progresses on its interactive map.

Within the framework of this action plan, the Government also signed an agreement with AQLPA and CMAVI collective on 17 November 2014, mandating these groups to locate and inspect all inactive wells within the St. Lawrence Lowlands. This agreement was cancelled prematurely in January 2016 and citizens haven't had any further news regarding the status of work.

As I share citizens' concerns regarding this matter, and more particularly those of CMAVI, I would like the Minister of Energy and Natural Resources to answer the following questions:

1. What is the current situation regarding the hundred or so wells that have been inspected by the department since 2011, as written in the "Plan d'action pour l'inspection des puits inactifs" and why has this information not already been made public via the department's interactive map?
2. How does the Minister intend to complete the inspection and documentation of the 700 inactive wells by 2017?
3. When does the Minister intend to make public the work carried out by the citizens and the AQLPA, who had managed to find and document more than one hundred inactive wells and had discovered that approximately thirty of them had environmental issues?
4. Of these thirty-odd problem wells, how many have been taken over by the department in order to apply mitigation or corrective measures?
5. What does the Minister consider to be a problem well?
6. Does the Minister believe that simply putting a fence around a problem well, as is the case for the inactive well (A-190) located in Ste-Françoise in the Centre-du-Québec region, ensures the safety of citizens and takes care of significant leakage problems?
7. What about the abandoned wells located under built environments? How many inactive wells are in this situation?

To the Minister of Finance

Loto-Québec was founded in 1969 and began selling lottery tickets in March 1970. In 1977, it established a new sales network via clearly identified Loto-Québec kiosks. Located in shopping centres, the kiosks, which sold only Loto-Québec products, were operated by non-profit organizations. Loto-Québec thus portrayed itself as a good corporate citizen and allowed NPOs to get funding while enjoying cheap labour.

According to the NPOs, this was a win-win situation. It is important to understand that if kiosk employees were government employees, as in the SAQs, it would cost much more. Ticket sale employees have received training and know the products very well in addition to delivering unparalleled customer experience, contrary to convenience stores.

In the past, all kiosks—over one hundred—were managed by approximately 70 non-profit organizations. In 2016, Loto-Québec decided to change its way of doing business. In a letter sent to certain management bodies on 9 May 2016, Loto-Québec announced that it was reviewing its kiosk business model, as this model had not been reviewed for the past 40 years and needed to be revitalized since it was no longer optimal. According to the terms and conditions of Loto-Québec's new business model, lots of approximately 10 kiosks will now be offered to managers hailing from independent firms.

Contrary to the information that still appears on Loto-Québec's website, eligibility criteria seems to have changed and it apparently is no longer necessary to "undertake charitable activities in Québec" and "hold a provincial or federal charter or other official document issued by the Government of Québec or the Government of Canada certifying that the organization is recognized as a non-profit".

On 20 July 2016, Loto-Québec called for tenders to operate a first lot of kiosks. The date to reply to the call for tenders was 29 July 2016, eight business days in the middle of the summer holidays.

On 1 October, a first lot of 10 kiosks was granted to a manager having a numbered company, 9306-0531 Québec inc.

In light of the elements brought to the Minister of Finance's attention, we would like him to answer the following questions:

- In what way was the previous model no longer optimal, and how will it be more so with the new business model allowing private entrepreneurs to operate a group of kiosks (approximately 10)?
- Is the Minister of Finance aware of Loto-Québec's dealings?
- By allowing Loto-Québec to open kiosk operation to for-profit companies, is the Minister aware that he is preventing a good number of NPOs from significant funding with which they provide invaluable services to the public? Does the Minister intend to take a closer look at this matter and support organizations that are losing revenue owing to Loto-Québec's decision?
- We ask the Minister to provide us with the operating agreement reached with for-profit company 9306-0531 Québec inc. to operate 10 kiosks.
- When will the Minister suspend the implementation of the new business model that allows the operation of Loto-Québec kiosks by for-profit companies?
- Lastly, does the Minister realize that this is the wrong way to treat business partners such as NPOs, which have been working with the Government for over 40 years while redirecting profits back into direct services to the population?

To the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food

In January 2014, the Association des producteurs de maïs de Neuville began taking the necessary steps with the CARTV to obtain a protected geographic indication (PGI). The CARTV accompanied the association and determined the relevance of the request throughout the process.

In order to achieve this, Neuville corn farmers were required to demonstrate the uniqueness of their product and the fact that its name is already recognized for its quality. They were required to draw up strict specifications that were evaluated and approved by the committee established by the CARTV. During the PGI's validation process, public consultations were held, which allowed for the validation and revision of the process.

At the end of the process, in March 2016, the CARTV sent the Minister of Agriculture the recommendation that the PGI requested by the Association des producteurs de maïs de Neuville be created. Quick approval would have allowed farmers to produce their corn with the PGI label as early as this summer.

This was eight months ago and the Minister still has not given his approval.

Why has approval to create the PGI not been given yet? What statutes and/or regulations are problematic in granting the PGI? What is the legal problem to which the Member for Portneuf refers in the press release published on 15 October 2016 and which prevents the PGI from being approved? Did the Minister meet or communicate with the Association des producteurs de maïs de Neuville? Will the Minister commit to approving the PGI by March 2017?

To the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food

On 21 October 2016, the Fédération de l'UPA de la Chaudière-Appalaches sent the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food a resolution that was adopted the previous day at their annual general assembly. The resolution, included in the letter, contained, among others, the following elements:

[Translation] "CONSIDERING that the Government also announced that as at 1 January 2017, farmland operated by a farmer registered with the Ministère de l'Agriculture, des Pêcheries et de l'Alimentation du Québec (MAPAQ) will be eligible for financial assistance equivalent to 78 % of the value of municipal taxes;

CONSIDERING that the Government falsely claims that this percentage of 78% is broadly equivalent to the level of support currently provided to program beneficiaries;

CONSIDERING that the new program will apply a single rate of 78%, exclude school taxes and abolish the credit of 100% for the first $300 in municipal taxes;

CONSIDERING that the credit of 85% of the cost of taxes for an assessment that exceeds $1,814 per hectare (ha) will also be abolished;

CONSIDERING that according to simulations made by the Fédération de l'UPA de la Chaudière-Appalaches, a potato farming business (14 ha) can expect an increase of 35%, a livestock production business (122 ha) will have a 41% increase, a market garden business close to an urban area (32 ha) can expect a 110% increase, and a small business (18,2 ha) would have a 117% increase;

The general assembly of the Fédération de l'UPA de la Chaudière-Appalaches unanimously asks:

- The Ministère du Revenu and the Ministère de l'Agriculture, des Pêcheries et de l'Alimentation du Québec:
 - To suspend the administrative changes that are to be implemented on 1 January 2017 and maintain the Farm Property Tax Credit Program (FPTCP) in its current form until a farm property taxation reform is put in place in collaboration with the community."

What reply did the Minister send to the Fédération de l'UPA de la Chaudière-Appalaches? Does the Minister recognize that the announced revision of the Farm Property Tax Credit Program (FPTCP) will cause an increase in tax payments for 83% of the farm businesses that were registered in the program? Does the Minister intend to cancel the announced changes to the FPTCP? Does the Minister plan to hold consultations in order to redefine the programs relating to farm property taxation?

(217) Mr. Khadir (Mercier) – 29 November 2016
To the Minister of Finance

The Community Volunteer Income Tax Program (CVITP), which, each year, allows over 315,000 vulnerable individuals to complete and file their tax return, is in jeopardy.

Testimonies of several organizations show the negative impact of the changes made to the CVITP on persons in situations of greater vulnerability. As you know, this program is jointly administered by the Canada Revenue Agency and Revenu Québec. The CVITP allows eligible individuals who have a modest income to get help in preparing their income tax and benefit returns. This help is provided during annual tax preparation clinics held by community organizations throughout the province.

At first, the role of the CVITP was to support the organization, management, training and recruitment of volunteers. The CVITP provided comprehensive training to future volunteers, including annual updating for experienced volunteers. Returns were filled out by hand on paper forms, which allowed for a greater number of persons to volunteer their help in the various clinics.

Since 2008, a digital shift (returns filed via electronic mailing) has taken place without evaluating and without thinking about the consequences for community organizations.

Moreover, the CVITP criteria have considerably changed:

- Volunteers must henceforth be recruited by community organizations. The CVITP requires that new volunteers already have basic knowledge about income taxes and electronic transmission of reports. The number of volunteers has dropped from 1230 in 2014 to 534 in 2015 for the Montréal region alone (source: freedom of information request).
- Training offered to volunteers is now strictly technical and is carried out exclusively via Webinar, with basic presentations that do not meet their needs.
- The CVITP strongly recommends that returns be filed electronically, using software, which poses a major challenge for organizations that don't necessarily have the required equipment and the financial means to comply with this new directive. It is difficult to find volunteers who have the computer skills required to produce online returns.
- Employees and volunteers are overwhelmed by the growing number of calls, the complex needs and the inability to meet demands.

In light of the elements brought to the attention of the Minister of Finance, we would like him to answer the following questions:

- Is the Minister aware that with this shift, over 300,000 people served by the organizations risk losing this service and that among them there are seniors, families, single persons, homeless persons, all of whom are already vulnerable?
- Is the Minister aware that if these persons can no longer file their tax returns owing to lack of access and availability of resources that are adapted to their needs, following some purely administrative decisions, their economic and social conditions will be even more precarious and they will risk losing the tax credits to which they are entitled (ex.: housing allowance, GST, solidarity tax credit and guaranteed income supplement)?
- Since the program's implementation in 1988, what funds have been allocated to the CVITP by Revenu Québec, per year?
- When do you intend to re-establish the former criteria of the CVITP, a simple program that is relatively inexpensive and that has proved its worth, in order to allow organizations to continue filing tax returns on paper, while ensuring that the CVITP recruits and adequately trains volunteers?
- When do you intend to grant financial assistance to organizations that want to file tax returns electronically (purchase of a printer, Internet connection, paper for printing, volunteer training)?
- When do you intend to extend the CVITP's mandate for it to adequately support community organizations by providing remunerated, trained and competent personnel?
- Will you commit to initiating discussions with your federal counterpart, Ms. Diane Lebouthillier, to ensure that the Liberal Government will reinvest in the CVITP program?
- Will you commit to making the case to the federal minister that significant and immediate reinvestment in this program is needed?
- In the event of your federal counterpart's refusal to reinvest in this program, will you commit to compensating for the federal's withdrawal so that Québec's vulnerable populations are not further weakened?

To the Minister of Sustainable Development, the Environment and the Fight Against Climate Change

The former industrial site on Chemin Louis-Riel in Bécancour, where Recyclage Aluminium and Alsa Aluminium plants were once located, is a site contaminated by tonnes of waste considered to be hazardous materials. The landfill cells containing this waste are no longer watertight and the water contaminated by this leakage overflows into the ditch surrounding the site, and then empties into Bécancour's river system.

Although this is a complex situation, the Ministère de l'Environnement has known since 2004 that the site leaks and no action has been taken to decontaminate the site or mitigate the environmental and public health risks. The Minister of Sustainable Development, the Environment and the Fight Against Climate Change is looking into a study in order to establish the actions that need to be taken to secure the premises, a study whose results will be known in March 2017. Will the Minister commit to disclosing the results of this study as soon as they are available? What does the Minister intend to do to ensure the protection of the citizens of Bécancour who are affected by this environmental disaster? What actions does he intend to take to ensure the health of his citizens and within what time period will he act?

(219) Mr. Spénard (Beauce-Nord) – 6 December 2016

To the Minister of Public Security

ADR (Avis de recherche) specialized service has developed a derived product that allows police services and civilian authorities to post emergency alert messages directly to cell phone users, including the transmission of photo images and videos. In 2013, despite being endorsed by most of Canada's and Québec's police forces, by mayors hailing from both Halifax and Vancouver, by the Fédération québécoise des municipalités and by Canadian consumer groups, the CRTC discontinued the mandatory distribution of ADR television station. This decision was described as inexplicable and unprecedented by two former CRTC commissioners, including a former CRTC vice-president.

Since it is no longer distributed by cable companies following the CRTC's decision, ADR will soon have to close its doors. Temporary funding on a transitional basis would help it implement this alert service that police forces would very much like to have and which was tested in the field when the business was part of cable subscribers' mandatory basic cable service. Transitional assistance is necessary, while waiting for the specialized television service case to again be presented following the appointment of a new CRTC president by summer 2017.

In this regard, sections 6(1)(a), 6(1)(c) and 6(1)(d) of the Department of Public Safety and Emergency Preparedness Act allow the federal Minister of Public Safety to intervene in this matter.

Will the Minister of Public Security call on the federal Minister of Public Safety and demand that he exercise his discretionary power without delay to find a solution for the purpose of maintaining and developing the service provided by ADR (Avis de recherche), the only Canadian business that has the expertise needed to quickly implement an alert service in Québec and Canada?
