Mr. Picard, First Vice-President, moved:

Complaints of Breach of Privilege or Contempt and Personal Explanations

The President issued his directive on the point of privilege raised by the Leader of the Official Opposition on 30 November 2018 regarding the First Vice-President's comments from the Chair during the Opening Speech Debate. In his address, the Chair stated that it had been agreed, by consent, that the time the First Vice-President used for his speech would be included in the time allocated to the Government for the Opening Speech Debate.

RULING FROM THE CHAIR

In 2001, the Chair established guidelines for the conduct of Vice-Presidents to avoid having them put themselves in situations where their impartiality could be called into question. At the time, the Chair reminded the House that the rules governing Vice-Presidents are more flexible than those applicable to the President. Vice-Presidents can participate in debates, move motions, vote and take part in their parties' political activities outside the Assembly and in their respective caucuses. The Chair would like to stress that Vice-Presidents are however expected to show reserve and behave so as to maintain the parliamentarians' confidence and the credibility needed to preside over Assembly debates. They must also show political sensitivity before speaking about or voting on any issue. This is why Vice-Presidents vote virtually only if the Members are unanimous on an issue. The Chair points out that presiding officers have always followed these guidelines and he considers them to remain relevant today.

It is customary, in the context of parliamentary proceedings, to allow Vice-Presidents some leeway to briefly comment from the Chair. However, Vice-Presidents wishing to participate in a debate in the Assembly must do so from their assigned seat in accordance with the general rules governing debates in progress, while preserving their impartiality and neutrality.

4 December 2018

The Chair considers that, in his 29 November 2018 speech, the First Vice-President should have restricted his comments to thanking his constituents, as is customary. However, the Chair stresses that the Vice-President's decision to forego taking part in his parliamentary group's caucus reflects his sincere intention to maintain a certain distance from his political party.

The Chair adds that, since 2012, the oath taken by the President of the National Assembly is a tangible reminder of this role's critical importance for our institution and for ensuring that all parliamentarians' rights are protected. It is desirable that, like the President, the Vice-Presidents embody these principles, incorporating them into their actions and words, both inside and outside the Assembly.

Oral Questions and Answers

The Assembly proceeded to Oral Question Period.

Motions Without Notice

Mr. Bérubé, Leader of the Second Opposition Group, together with Mr. Zanetti (Jean-Lesage), moved a motion on the oath to the monarchy taken when Members are sworn in; this motion could not be debated for want of unanimous consent.

4 December 2018

THAT, accordingly, it recognize that immigration is necessary to meet the human resources challenge we are currently experiencing.

The question was put on this motion, and a recorded division was thereupon demanded.
