BUSINESS STANDING IN THE NAME OF MEMBERS IN OPPOSITION

(71)11 May 2021

Motion by the Member for Îles-de-la-Madeleine

THAT the National Assembly note that according to Public Health data, the epidemiological situation related to the COVID-19 pandemic is stable or improving day by day, and the vaccination campaign is proceeding smoothly;

THAT it take into account the fact that the Government announced a gradual deconfinement plan last week;

THAT the National Assembly reiterate that the concept of a state of emergency is an exception to the principle of democracy which is justified only when a situation represents a serious threat to the health of the population, whether it be real or apprehended;

THAT the National Assembly recall the importance of establishing a clear framework to guide the return to a state of normal democracy;

THAT, the National Assembly therefore ask the Government to commit to ending the health emergency once, among other things, its vaccination objectives have been met and the number of hospitalizations resulting from COVID-19 is under control, and to include opposition parties in the process.

Part 5

WRITTEN QUESTIONS

Questions already placed on the Order Paper are published each Wednesday

(227) Mr. LeBel (Rimouski) – 13 April 2021
To the Government

In principle, anyone whose physical or mental health has changed is required to undergo an automobile driving assessment. If a person's driving abilities are affected following an illness, they must be assessed by an occupational therapist, which is normal. However, age must not be a criterion of discrimination. Many elderly drivers must take a Société de l'assurance automobile du Québec (SAAQ) road test. If they fail the test, the SAAQ often requests that they consult an occupational therapist. The current fee of $650 for an occupational therapist and the one-year wait time for an appointment are unacceptable.

In the past, this service was offered free of charge by the region's Integrated Health and Social Services Centre (CISSS). For the past few years, this service has been offered solely by private practitioners and there has been an increase in costs that has become difficult for elderly people to pay. The stress of undergoing such an assessment is compounded by the anxiety caused by the financial costs.

In a democratic society such as ours, which has strong social values, how is it that we have come to this point where we have totally eliminated this public service that was necessary for a large part of the population?

In my opinion, ageism exists when seniors are discriminated against compared with younger people. A young person can retake his or her road test without having to consult an occupational therapist.

My question is the following:

Will the Government reconsider this rule in order to provide the population, including seniors, with a public occupational therapy service?

(229) Ms. Weil (Notre-Dame-de-Grâce) – 20 April 2021
To the Minister of Higher Education

On 7 October 2021, the Ordre des chimistes du Québec (OCQ) sent the Minister a letter to express its serious concerns regarding three matters and propose a solution, which is to update the Professional Chemists Act.

First, the OCQ expressed a grave concern about the obsolescence of the Professional Chemists Act, which was enacted in 1964 and hampers efforts to adequately fight the illegal practice of chemistry and protect the public.

Second, the lack of an adequate framework for the profession of microbiologist creates a major risk for the population that is well-documented. The OCQ is concerned about a possible increase in disinformation regarding the current health situation.

Lastly, the OCQ deplores that the current Act prevents foreign-trained chemists' integration into the order and the labour market because it disregards all the chemistry experience that a qualified and competent candidate has acquired in their career.

The Ordre des chimistes du Québec proposes to remedy these three problems through the legislative review of the Act, which would include updating the definition of chemistry, ensuring the integration of microbiologists into a joint order with chemists and facilitating the integration of foreign-trained chemists.

Can the Minister tell us her orientations and timetable for updating the Professional Chemists Act?

Can the Minister tell us if a new bill will be introduced during this legislature?

(231) Mr. LeBel (Rimouski) – 22 April 2021
To the Government

Considering the historically low vacancy rate in the Rimouski CMA (0.9% according to the most recent CMHC statistics) and considering the market reality observed through negotiations with the majority of private property-owners participating in the Rent Supplement Program (RSP), it is possible that any of a number of problems related to the lack of available affordable housing may arise in the coming months, specifically in Rimouski's urban sector. We are headed straight for a July 1st crisis.

Also, in the current context, it is foreseeable and probably that housing problems could arise because some households will not qualify as eligible applicants with the Office d'habitation Rimouski Neigette (OHRN). And that the OHRN would then have few resources to participate in the resolution of these issues, except for temporary last-resort assistance (e.g. in a situation where someone is experiencing homelessness).

Since 1 July 2020, the OHRN and its partners have seen a significant increase in homelessness. Notably, some citizens lived in tents or seasonal dwellings, and with the arrival of winter some required emergency assistance. Although the OHRN was able to provide support to a number of such applicants experiencing difficulties, it and its partners noted that some of those citizens experiencing difficulties did not meet the criteria for available social housing programs.

Options are limited in such situations. Partners offering temporary sheltering have often been overwhelmed by demand, because transitional housing (1 and a half, studio) on the market is all already fully occupied. Organizations working in the housing sector in neighbouring RCMs have confirmed that they are experiencing the same problem (extremely low vacancy rate for affordable housing, pressure on the rental and real estate market due to positive migration, and a lack of options for citizens who need larger dwellings).

In addition, this housing scarcity raises concerns that the already precarious situation experienced by low- and modest-income renter households could deteriorate even further, as average rent prices continue to increase. The average monthly rent for a three-bedroom dwelling increased by 5.7% over one year, while the CPI increased by only 0.8%. The various partners involved in the provision of social housing are concerned that in the current context renter households forced to move may simply not find an affordable place to move to. These are all citizens who need social housing right now but are being forced to wait for months, if not years.

It is therefore important that those involved in this field come up with a comprehensive solution for citizens who are not eligible for social housing, or who are eligible but find themselves on a long waiting list, and as a result are falling through the cracks. Various partners, including public health authorities, social services, municipalities and their various partners are assuming their responsibilities as best they can, but the reality is Rimouski needs at least 305 additional housing units.

My question is threefold:

Given the situation with regard to the housing crisis in Québec, where are the 15,000 housing units the CAQ government promised would be built?

Given the rise in housing prices in Québec, are there any means that will be put in place to avoid speculation and the unacceptable increase in the cost of housing?

Will municipalities and community partners receive any special assistance to deal with what is looming on July 1st and the shortage of affordable housing that is apprehended?

To the Minister of Health and Social Services

On 26 November 2018, the Government announced the expansion and restructuring of the emergency department of the Hôpital de Jonquière in the Jonquière riding. The announcement stated development of the functional and technical program was authorized to begin.

Our questions to the Minister of Health and Social Services are as follows:

Will the Minister of Health and Social Services authorize the stage for the plans and specifications essential to carrying out the work in the coming weeks, given that delays will influence the timeline?

To the Minister of Economy and Innovation

On 24 April, we learned that a trade dispute between Canada and Australia was going to penalize Québec's small wine producers. The agreement provides for new fees on Québec bottles sold in grocery stores and convenience stores. Those fees could reach $6 per bottle, which would add a degree of difficulty to selling this type of product in grocery stores. The new measure represents another barrier for Québec's wine and mead producers.

My question is the following:

Is the Minister of Economy considering allowing wine and mead producers to sell online and ship their products directly to the client to counter the negative impacts of this new provision?

To the Government

Recently, all of Québec's Auberges du cœur requested financial support from the government to ensure the sustainability and deployment of their activities. The Auberges du cœur rightly pointed out that funding for the mission of youth shelters was not increased in the last budget.

The situation of young people experiencing difficulties and homelessness is especially worrying in the context of the health measures related to COVID-19 and the housing crisis. The Auberges du cœur welcome many young people from across Québec throughout the year. In my riding, Le Transit crisis centre offers support to some 80 young Quebecers experiencing difficulties and homelessness every year. These youth, aged 17 to 30, experience difficulties that can have a significant impact on their social integration, family life, lifestyle, professional integration or academic career.

Despite the addition of services and programs, many of these young people are dealing with an accumulation of setbacks, abuse, neglect, and poor decisions or even just bad luck which undermines their ability to cope.

The Auberges du cœur has developed innovative approaches to support youth in their efforts to improve their autonomy and ability to act. The goal is to develop meaningful ties with young people and also to help them develop the autonomy they need to live their lives.

My question is the following:

Does the Government intend to respond positively to the requests of the Auberges du cœur so that they can focus on their mission, which is to provide support to youth experiencing difficulties along life's journey?

To the Government

In the last three years, Québec has experienced droughts that have had a drastic impact on the hay yields and reserves in a number of administrative regions in our territory. This has directly impacted the lives of Québec farmers. It is clear that climate change is directly affecting the quality of life of Québec citizens and that if nothing is done soon, the effects will increase exponentially.

My question is the following:

- Has the Government begun to analyze the impacts of climate change on farm production in Québec? If so, how many years are considered in the analysis and what action does the Government plan to take?
- Does the Government intend to respond more quickly than in previous years by putting in place an assistance program to meet the needs of farmers who are suffering production losses as a direct result of climate variability?

To the Minister of Higher Education

During the public hearings held in August 2019 on Bill 29, An Act to amend the Professional Code and other provisions in particular in the oral health and the applied sciences sectors, the committee heard that there were only five dental assistants in all Québec dental laboratories. Dental assistants are employees who work in dental laboratories, but who have not completed a diploma of college studies (DCS) that would qualify them as a dental technician. However, contrary to what the committee heard, an estimated 1,000 dental assistants currently work in Québec dental laboratories under the supervision of a member of the order, as is done in other fields, such as in the field of pharmacy.

The Ordre des technologues en prothèses et appareils dentaires du Québec (OTPADQ) is now working to have these dental assistants certified as members of the order. However, apparently this is rarely possible because many of them do not meet the order's eligibility criteria.

This new requirement could therefore result in a major labour shortage in Québec dental laboratories and, in turn, jeopardize the supply of dental appliances and prostheses to the Québec population.

In a context where public health and the health system are under considerable strain, the potential inability of dental laboratories to provide appliances and prostheses could compromise the oral health of Quebecers.

My questions are the following:

- Can the Minister clarify whether dental assistants can continue to work within the current framework without being required to become members of the OTPADQ?
- How does the Minister plan to avoid a breakdown in the delivery of dental laboratory services in Québec?

To the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing

In Québec, citizens generally have three years to file a lawsuit against another person, a company or a government. However, the law provides for some exceptions, including a maximum period of six months to file a lawsuit against a city or town.

This provision of the Cities and Towns Act, which dates back several decades, means that heartbreaking cases filed by citizens must be abandoned for lack of a longer prescription period. This is the case of a Hudson citizen who was negotiating in good faith with her city for compensation following the flooding of her house due to the failure of a municipal dam. Judge Pierre-C. Gagnon, who looked into the case of the citizen in question, alerted the government as to the relevance of maintaining the six-month prescription period, which he said protects towns and cities to the detriment of citizens and is a privilege which may have become obsolete and unjustified.

In the absence of bodily injury, these provisions also prevail in the context of cases filed against a police department or one of its employees, in particular with regard to discriminatory profiling by police officers. Obviously, these provisions undermine citizens' trust in their institutions.

In its brief submitted to the advisory committee on policing last November, the Commission des droits de la personne et des droits de la jeunesse noted that it is confronted regularly with difficulties posed by this exceptionally short prescription period. That is why it considered that Bill 168 – tabled in the National Assembly in 2017, but which then died on the Order Paper without having been passed – constituted a true recognition of the primacy of the rights protected by the Charter and of the primary role it must play in Québec's legal system. It should be recalled that sections 36 and 37 of that bill would have had the effect of eliminating the exceptions that reduce the three-year prescription period generally applicable to an action filed to receive compensation for damages resulting from a violation of rights or freedoms protected under the Charter.

Moreover, the Chairperson of the Human Rights Tribunal noted in her 2017 activity report that given their importance, any recourse based on the fundamental rights protected under the Charter should indeed benefit from an extended period, thus ensuring that litigants have a useful and effective remedy.

The Minister is aware of this issue. She is also aware of the various rulings and recommendations made by the various bodies.

My question is the following:

1. Is the Minister open to abolishing the maximum six-month prescription period for claiming damages against a municipality provided for under the Cities and Towns Act?
